MANY NEW HOMES WILL BE BUILT

Gettysburg Residents to Erect Five New Dwelling Houses this Spring and Summer. Some will Improve Present Homes.

The steady and healthy expansion of Gettysburg is again shown this spring in the great demand for houses and flats and in the building operations now in progress or soon to be commenced. A number of fine new houses are to be built in Gettysburg this summer and there are now practically no vacant houses in the town while flats are at a premium.

South Street which has been recently opened up for building purposes is to have another double brick house. Emory Plank being the owner. There are two other houses on that street now and it promises soon to be one of the most popular sections of "Sleepy Hollow".

Several new houses are to go up in the North End of town this summer. Frank R. Perkman, who has been living for several years at the corner of Broadway and Mummasburg Road is planning to put up a residence for his own occupancy on the south side of Broadway between Washington and Carlisle streets. Mr. Brehm is also planning to build on his lot on the north side of Broadway between the homes of Edgar A. Crouse and Paul A. Martin.

George Stallsmith is planning to build a row of two double brick houses on Stratton street near Railroad street, improving greatly that portion of town and contributing materially to the other building operations in that part of Gettysburg.

Charles Shoads has started to build a brick house on Hanover street near Fourth street, and Harold Strick-house is building a double brick house on York street near Fourth street, adding to the rapidly increasing number of new homes in the eastern end of town.

James Weikert recently completed his double house on York street and it is now occupied, Mr. Weikert himself residing in the one portion of it. Ernest Zeigler's new residence on North Washington street, near Chambersburg street, has been pushed right along and will before very long be ready for occupancy.

A number of other Gettysburg residents are planning to build but have not decided definitely whether or not they will put up their houses during the coming summer.

Remodeling will be done in a number of homes and several business places improvements are under consideration to be announced later. Contractors expect to have their hands full all summer and when the fall comes a noticeable improvement in the appearance of Gettysburg may be expected.

Men who make a business of laying concrete pavements are also looking forward to busy days as soon as "the frost is out of the ground" and the town will take another step forward to rid itself of its present undesirable reputation for bad sidewalks.

TOOK TESTS

Gettysburg Post Office Clerks Make High Records and Good Speed.

An examination in dictating and efficiency was held in the Gettysburg post office on Thursday by Chief Clerk Burkholder of Harrisburg. Two of the local clerks took the examination which is similar to that to which the railway post office clerks are subjected. Chief C. Scott had a record of 99.85 and a speed of thirty right pieces a minute. Preston W. Hall made a record of 99.14 and a speed of thirty pieces a minute. Both are to be congratulated on their highly satisfactory showing.

Song of the Sands.

"At a camp in the northeastern corner of the desert the curious song of the sands was heard," says, in the Geographical Journal, one who has been in the Libyan desert. "The sound began about 7:30 p. m. and continued at intervals until about eight. The sound was not only, in fact, two or my men were unable to hear it. There were two distinct sounds; the one somewhat resembled the signing of the wind in telegraph wires, and the other was a deep, throbbing sound that scarcely rumbled me of the after reverberation of 'Big Ben.' It was difficult to determine whether the sound came with the sound came, but approximately it came from a place about a mile distant where the sand poured over a low scarp. The sound was a distinctly musical one, as opposed to a mere noise."

Bravery in Goodness.

To do as evil act is base. To do a good one without incurring danger is common enough. But it is the part of a good man to do good and noble deeds though he risk everything in doing them.—Plutarch.

Must Have New God of War.

"The latest spirit of the ten edicted and more superstitions of the Christmas tree ones more come to the front in the revolution," says the North China Daily News, "we suppose that the god of war, to whom bonzes has been paid for generations back, is a deity that was adopted by the Manchu dynasty when they became rulers of China. As a matter of fact, he was the canonized version of a great warrior of the third century. He is not a new government has been set up in this part of the country a section of the followers of the revolutionary party has decided that it is necessary to have a different god of war to that which has presided over the military sacrifices of the Manchus, and it is learned that the canonization board has already selected a new god, the old god is about to take place."

Demand Dainty Fastgear.

"It is wonderful," said a New York woman who has been living abroad, "how much attention the Prince Consort has have come to pay of late to their fastwear, their shoes and their stockings. The tight short skirt is also partly responsible. In the shoe department we insisted it did not matter so much what a Frenchman had on his feet, and the shoes were always long and pointed. The advent of the bobbie skirt made the Frenchman realize clearly that the French bootmaker had got to take to making shorter and with more regard to looks, so that now the French-woman sees to her own stockings and smart shoes just as much as the American. She will, in fact, however, upon having the top of a different color to the lower."

With Moron people, on the death of a child, it is the law (or at least it is custom) must provide a mara which is laid around the assembling party in laughing woman, who is dressed up for the occasion. It is absolutely necessary that a mara should be obtained for the funeral—and the better neglect to do so, the ghost of the deceased will never give him any peace—and she must be sold after-wards, if not, she will die. Why a woman should have to be laughing is one comprehension, but that is Moron custom, and after all it is quite a mistake to suppose that people must necessarily look glum on these occasions.

BOB WHITE SOLD AUTO FOR $300

Young Englishman's Arrest is Promised before Sunday. Disposed of Car in Philadelphia, for Less than One-Third its Price.

Bob White, the attractive young Englishman who has been the chief topic of interest in Gettysburg this week, has disposed of his new $1095 Hutchens automobile in Philadelphia, for the paltry sum of $300, according to a telephone message from Chief of Detectives Cameron, of the Quaker City, who has charge of Bob White's arrest some time this week.

White several weeks ago secured the car from D. B. Lady of Hanover, giving a note with C. S. Keener of Gettysburg as his security. Mr. Keener left for Philadelphia Wednesday evening after learning that the automobile had been located.

White was in Hanover last Thursday when he did Mr. Lau that he had a prospective purchaser in York and apparently the latter then left for that city, day the Roman Automobile Company, of Philadelphia, called Mr. Lau to know the price they would buy it and they were informed that White held the demonstrating car and that he had given a note for the same properly endorsed by a responsible party.

Mr. Lau gave them no light on White's right to sell the car, saying that is what it was up to them to decide. It is not known that the latter was called. The company sent their agent White to the telephone and they did so after which Mr. Lau reasoned that the getting out of his machine and the Englishman gave a very satisfactory account of himself as he wanted to get a quick purchaser so that he could deal with him for the protection ear of another make concerning which they had had some conversation.

On Saturday a warrant was again called Mr. Lau—evidently after the discovery of White's departure had been revealed to them—and asked that the former conversation be repeated as nearly as possible. White has transpired between the automobile company and Mr. Lau's agent—the latter's visit to Philadelphia has not been learned.

WOMEN CHECK FIRE

Change Course of Flames by Plowing Across Path.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Charles Woodring and Miss Hattie Stookey, a forest fire which was raging in the vicinity of their home, near Pen-Mar in York county, was checked and discovered by the women there were no men near, and it had burned over about half an acre of timber and was fast approaching the orchard of Charles Woodring. Under the direction of the women, they plowed several furrows around the fire, thereby changing the course of the fire.

It then spread all the more into the timberland, and when a large force of men had responded to the call of fire and been burned over, and it was only gotten under control by the volunteer firemen, who were stationed in Mt. Wolf.

The woodlands of Messrs. Woodring, D. Y. Swanger and Harry Stoudfer were destroyed.

OBJECT TO SONG

Hotel Association Find Fault with Temperance Music in School Books.

The Carlisle school board recently gave permission to the publication of "Coon, Loyal Friends of Cumberland", a temperance song, to be used exclusively in the schools. When the board met this week it was found that members of the Cumberland County Hotelmen's Association against the use of the song in the schools, and the attorneys, Herman Berg, appeared to argue the case. The board, after considering them with equal propriety, ask that songs in praise of rum be banned in the school books.

The state's school code provides that physiology be taught in the schools and that the textbooks on this subject are required to make special reference to the dangers of alcoholic drinks. The directors made no decision.

Rent Compensation.

The only compensation for asthma thinks it is too labor, said Sir Joshua Reynolds, is the praise of impartial judges.

EAGLES PURCHASE TOOT PROPERTY

Pay Six Thousand Dollars for Fine Large House on Chambersburg Street. Will Make Changes and Improvements. Possession May 1.

Gettysburg Aerie 1562, Fraternal Order of Eagles, has purchased from Miss Ella Toot her three story dwelling on Chambersburg street. The price paid was $6000 and possession will be given May first.

The Eagles were organized in Gettysburg in January 1907 and have enjoyed a prosperous existence here. Their membership now numbers well on to two hundred. From the time of their organization until a few weeks ago they occupied the Diehl building on Chambersburg street but moved out there and stored their goods until a property could be secured.

The trustees of the lodge, C. Tyson Deatrick, H. W. Hammond and Ross Herbert, inspected a number of local properties with a view to purchase and determined upon the Toot property, on account of its location, size and substantial nature of the building. Their choice was ratified at a meeting of the aerie and the purchase has been made.

A number of improvements and changes are contemplated for the Eagles' new home. The third floor will be converted into a large lodge room and the other floors will be used for club purposes and for rental purposes which the membership will find necessary. The house is of sufficient size to provide ample room for any purpose required.

Mrs. Mary Harbold, of Dillsburg, is in a critical condition from a severe case of blood poisoning and her sister, Mrs. Margie Spahr, nursing her, through a cut on her finger, is also badly afflicted with the disease. Later in the day she became delirious and died about 10 o'clock Monday night.

Mrs. Spahr, while nursing her sister, dressed the infected part of her finger, not thinking any danger from forgetting a small cut on one of her hands. The cut became infected and now her hand is very sick and badly swollen. She is confined to bed.

WINS LAURELS

Son of Local Man to Represent State of Michigan.

Walter E. Morris, son of Dr. J. B. Morris, of Gettysburg, has been the representative of the State of Michigan in the interstate joint oratorical contest to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, on the evening of April 25. Morris is now a junior law student in the University of Michigan and has thus far won first honors in the local oratorical contest, and recently in the state contest at Olivet, in which the colleges of the state competed.

The oration which Morris is giving this year is his own production and is "The Price of Peace" in which he shows the terrible and intimidating destruction and large standing armies as a means of preserving peace. He further illustrates vividly the economic waste of armies.

This is not the first time the young orator has won distinction upon the platform. Before going to the University of Michigan to take up the study of law, Morris attended colleges in Oregon. There he won the oratorical contest for his college, took the state honors in the Peace contest in "The State competitive in the Interstate League contest.

CADETS COMING EARLY IN MAY

Senior Class of the Military Academy at West Point will Visit Gettysburg May Fourth and Fifth to Make Study of Field.

The Senior Class of the West Point Military Academy will make an annual tour to Gettysburg on Monday and Tuesday, May fourth and fifth, when the historical study of the battle which always forms part of their last year's work, will be taken up.

The cadets will come in their own special train leaving the Point on Monday evening and arriving in Gettysburg early Monday morning. A day and a half will be spent in the study of the field and the return trip will be started Tuesday night.

One of the pleasant features of the trip in other years has been the offer of base ball between the coming defenders of the country and the local college nine. This is usually played on the afternoon of the second day. Unfortunately Gettysburg is scheduled to play the University of Pittsburgh on Nixon Field that afternoon and a game with the cadets is not likely.

It was formerly the custom for the West Point boys to study the field in detail, lectures being given at the various points of particular interest. More recently, however, it has been the plan to divide into squads, which are quartered at the Reserve Armstrong, all meeting at the end of the day at the hotel, where the results of the field lecture is given.

Upon their return to West Point the cadets write criticisms of the conduct of the Gettysburg fight with suggestions as to how they would have acted according to the development of modern warfare.

The class numbers between seventy five and one hundred and while here will stay at the Eagle Hotel and Hotel Gettysburg.

Thirty students from the De Lancey School, Philadelphia, visit Gettysburg on Friday, April 17, for a tour of the battlefield. This has also been the annual affair for many years of the well known Philadelphia school and they have been reserved at the Eagle Hotel for them.

FELL FROM BRIDGE

Edgemont Man Pinions to Jagged Rocks Below.

Chauncey Miller, residing about a quarter of a mile west of Edgemont, was badly injured Wednesday morning when he fell from the Western Maryland railroad bridge just west of Edgemont.

Miller was returning to his home when the accident occurred. Just how he came to fall is not definitely known, as the matter is not clear in his mind. He is probably stumbled and lost his balance, plunging to the jagged rocks twenty feet below, where he lay unconscious for almost an hour. He was discovered by several passersby and helped to his home where he was attended by a physician.

A superficial examination disclosed no bones broken, Miller is suffering from a number of severe bruises and bruises.

THE AUGHINBAUGH PRINTERY BURNED

Estate of Edward Aughinbaugh Leases by Morning Fire in Herrisburg which Completely Destroyed Valuable Records.

One man is dead, another is believed to have been burned to death, and several firemen and a small boy were slightly injured by fire, which totally destroyed the State Printery, in Harrisburg, Thurs. a. m. The loss is estimated to be in excess of $150,000. Fanned by a 16 mile an hour wind the fire which originated on the first floor totally destroyed the building, burning valuable State records, which cannot be replaced.

This printery was for many years conducted by C. Edward Aughinbaugh, formerly of Gettysburg, and the estate of Mr. Aughinbaugh owned much property which was burned. He left the place, and which, it is presumed, was insured for $75,000.

William Harris, was overcome by smoke while battling with the flames. He died in the ambulance while being taken to the hospital. John W. Priebe, a machinist, is missing. It is thought that he was trapped in the burning building. Mr. Priebe received slight injuries when a hose burst, hurling them to the ground.

In addition to destroying printing for forty five counties, the index and plates of the House session of the Legislative Journal, which it is further stated was destroyed, was destroyed. This is regarded as the most serious loss to the State departments.

The fire started in the forty third printing press on the first floor near the boiler room. It followed the passage of a printer until 1865, when he went to Gettysburg and engaged in the dry goods business.

In 1866, Mr. Doll was elected president of the Frederickstown Savings Institution, which position he retained until his death.

In 1867, Mr. Doll married Miss Hannah Margaret Danner, of Gettysburg. Several months ago Mrs. Doll died.

Mr. Doll leaves one brother, Mr. Samuel V. Doll.

MISS BRUCE MARING

Miss Bruce Maring, of Mt. Joy township, near Hurney, died Thursday night in the Keystone hospital at Lancaster, where she had undergone a serious operation. The remains were accompanied and the streets were lined with a number of lines.

For a time it appeared as if the illness was under control but time after time it would appear to take a decided turn for the worse, disheartening the firemen. At last night they were in a hopeless condition on the fire but with no effect until late in the evening.

The fire started about ten o'clock and lasted for three hours.

Her Little Knowledge.

The lady was sending a sentimental bovel, the struggled along bravely for a few weeks, but finally had to appeal to her husband. "Gerald," she said, "the editor says that the hero was willing 'wine and wine.' What does he mean?" I've been on a tyrnit, but I never heard that before." "That means," answered Gerald, unfolding to the fact that he, too, had once served time in a military tyrnit, "that means that the schooner had her bastard up and her jury fixed and was in clurkand—or vice versa." "Oh, I see!" cried the lady. "It's just like a chicken—a wing on each side. And now I understand why they call those little sails in the middle 'jibs.' It's short for 'gibbet,' of course. Isn't sailing interesting?"

Town Patriotism in Luxemburg.

Though Luxemburg has fallen all over the world, nowhere, perhaps, is it forever cherished as in the quiet duchy of Luxemburg. The tourist is sure to be seemingly privately When he arrives at the inn of any little town he should get into conversation with the waiter, or better still, with the landlord himself, and mention that at the last town at which he stayed he had most cheapest meals he ever had in his life he served. The landlord will depart to the kitchen dazzled by the denunciation of the tourist that he has never in his life tasted such a bad dinner as he cooked need. And by the time for coffee and cigars he will soon want to be believing it. The finest cooks in Europe are natives of Luxemburg.

Would Reclaim Zuder Zee.

A great project is again before the people of Holland for the reclaiming of the Zuder Zee. The sea, which, as every one knows, is the north of Holland and covers an area of fifty thousand hectares, is gradually but practically filling up. Just half a century ago a scheme to drain the southern portion of the sea was first mooted and, although it received considerable support the opposition was greater, but now an association has been formed and a bill will be introduced into the chamber. The promoters say that with an increased population means must be taken to reclaim the country, and that the reclamation of the sea is considered the most practical scheme. If the scheme is conquered there are several Dutch cities which can be dealt with immediately.

Lawyer Had Enough.

A badgering lawyer was examining a doctor in a murder case, says the New York Sun. The solicitor represented the defendant, and the doctor testified that he treated the prosecutor for a black eye. "What do you mean by a black eye?" queried the legal gentleman. "I mean," said the doctor, "what I said. I mean that the prosecutor had received a severe contusion over the left orbit of the frontal bone, producing extensive ecchymosis around the eye together with considerable infiltration of the subjacent areolar tissue." The medical witness was relieved from further cross-examination.

Bismarck's "Sacred" Number.

Belief in the number 3 was almost a religion with Bismarck. If he ran like a vein of gold through all his dazzling career. He served under three rulers and took a generous part in three wars and signed three treaties of peace. He was the father of the triple alliance, and from his three names and so many words in his family motto, "Strength in Trinity," and his three children, there was no project or undertaking in his life in which this "sacred" number was not of the best omen to him.

Giant Oysters.

The largest oyster weighing three pounds dredged at Faversham, shows that size is one of the many qualities man has rivaled America, oysters in action. In the seventeenth century gigantic British oysters were occasionally seen. In Moxley's "Handicraftsman's Companion," published 1703, we read: "Alexander, with his friends and physicians, wondered to find oysters in the Indian seas a foot long; and in Pliny's time was recorded at an oyster which might be divided into three. This is said to be truly, either that at my oldest brother's wedding at Aldham hall, there was laid on a Pelusian oyster divided into eight good morsels, whereof some of the guests thought was those of Alexander's."—London Chronicle.

Re-enable Bible Verses.

The action was on the civil docket of Zephaniah counties every year instituting the duties of the Hebrew language, while one will find in the Lexington Post was an seventh chapter of the Song of Solomon, of the King James version as follows: "And, O, my beloved, how beautiful you are! How fair to all the treasures for which are lacking in the prize, the smile of his love of his God of heaven, shall receive at you, it be done speedily."—Kansas City Star.

Out of the Question.

William H. Crahe was twitted because his horse won the Senator Kenyon Handicap. "It's now play, are not vicky," he had the matter up with the Secretary," retorted Crane, "and after I had acted my views at length she blandly replied: 'You can't expect a horse run to be witty in his own shoo

Term Offended Castro.

Diplomatic circles are over the ticklish matters to translate, as the Paris Temps points out, the reference of the official text of the Franco-German agreement. Three years ago a misunderstanding led to very strained relations between Venezuela and Holland. The Dutch consul at Caracas, referring in his official bulletins, wrote to the Venezuelan foreign minister that "even the Dutch vessels" had been detained to disturb peace between the nations. The latter's offices complained resident "maledetto spirito," a phrase which in Castro's mind came this to be a reference to himself, and the consequence was a severe rupture of on off with Holland. But an interpreter's blunder is not to be laid to the charge of Castro.

ENTERPRISING FRIENDLINESS

How Decator Citizens Won the Hearts of Incoming Locomotive Workers.

When the Erie railroad decided to reasonably no matter the change locomotive shops at Meadville, the meeting homes deeply pied for, inding the railroad out of working on shops and take affiliations.

When the Worm Turned

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

By M. Q.A.D.

In this instance the worm was Sarah Ann Perkins. She was a meek little wife.

Nature and her father and a lot of other persons and things were to blame for it, and the ultimate result was to make a hewn of trouble for a hundred people and more.

Sarah Ann was born homely. Just how homely she was as a baby need not be told here. She was homely as a child. She was homely as a young girl, the homely bashful as goes when it sees a girl ashamed. At the age of twenty Sarah Ann was homely. She should not be blamed for the attention of any handsome girl.

Sarah Ann's father was to blame in this: He had no use for women and for his life, and when he came to his last illness he had not left a dollar or anything to his daughter.

Sarah Ann married what Sarah Ann had been left a big legacy, and still she would have married about the same lot as here with her. Then they invested it in a farm and proceeded to raise it again. When Miss Perkins had reached the age of forty she became mad in due time the five or six women in the neighborhood who considered accounts nailed her figured up that she had been married twenty-four different times. Then the married women of a dozen families set to work to prove it.

There was great jeering when the bride of forty-five and her about equally old groom went on their honeymoon, but it was not contested. She realized that she had taken a husband, and with a keen eye optimistic woman can't fail to make the best of it. Then the farm began to yield to the coaxing guns. For a song, long to be remembered, the bridegroom when the stars of crowding twinkled had gone out to the barn and with a pillow of Scottsville hadn't given his wife a kiss. Then he went to bed and made it hot for Scottsville. There was the sound of a scrap in the night and the scottsville's teeth on her cried was made to stick to the wall of the bridal chamber. If there had been there would have been silvers a-plenty.

Then came the great domestic change, her of concourse interested itself. As the breakfast table was being cleared away house in the city discovered the report of Scottsville's death and the funeral arrangements of holders was called, and, though no Scottsville appeared, there was a good deal of excitement and a few tears were shed. Then the will was read and it was found that Scottsville's property would be provided by the following manner:

"Through its secretary, John M. Byrne, the Scottsville Humane society is hereby informed that it has been made the residuary legatee of the estate of Sarah Ann Scottsville, deceased, and that the society is to receive the sum of $1,000 in hand and the interest on the balance of the estate during the life of his the editor could think of the following: "The friend had left Scottsville his illustrious."

Then the will was read and it was found that Scottsville had left the society $1,000 in hand and the interest on the balance of the estate during the life of his wife. The society could produce from the recesses of its memory no Scottsville. It was a name it could not place. It was a name it could not remember. It was a name it could not associate with any face. It was a name it could not associate with any person. If the secretary had been in the office he would have been excused and a bill presented to him for the funeral expenses. But the secretary was not present. He was at Denver, one of the largest cities in the United States.

When they learned that they were to be benefited by the will of a person they could produce from the recesses of their memories no Scottsville the society took steps to find out who Scottsville was. The secretary was informed that there was a Scottsville in the annual census of the Order of Sons of America."—Harper's Magazine.

Matter of Friends.

It is good to have a friend, but it is better to be one. Many a man has a big unselfishly loved and sympathized with by those who have learned that he can be conquered with the gain of unselfish love. FEW TROUT IN LOCAL STREAMS

While Anglers in Other Parts of the State Have Good Fishing, Adams County's Fishermen Say the Sport is Diminishing Yearly.

The announcement that trout fishing this season will be exceptionally fine in streams throughout the state is greeted with little interest here in Adams County where no brook trout have been caught in many years. The natural propagation of those fish is not sufficient to keep the streams properly stocked and, as a result, the sport is becoming more and more unsatisfactory. A local angler said this morning:

"It is scarcely worth while going to the mountain streams any more. No trout have been planted, don't suppose to lack of interest locally, and the number of fish in the streams is rapidly lessened by those who take them illegally when the trout go upstream. When I was a boy trout in the State have gotten the young fish we have now, and the streams would be a matter of history here if something isn't soon done".

R. B. Hoke, State Commissioner of Fisheries, prophesies good trout fishing throughout Pennsylvania next Spring.

"Considering the condition of the streams and the severe winter through which we have passed, the reports I have received from the fish wardens are excellent, and I think that there will be good fishing," he said. "This condition is general throughout the State. I have received reports from Adams, Franklin and Cumberland counties which are very encouraging. The trout have been "planted" in the streams from the State hatcheries, having gone on as long as weather permitted, and having been resumed recently. They were put in in March a year old, and are from four to seven inches long, and are expected to take care of themselves.

The trout season will open on April 15 and run to July 31.

EXPECT MANY PEACHES

Large Yield in Places where Frost did not Do Injury.

Later reports from fruit growers in the South Mountain region concerning the condition of the fruit crop are very favorable, all of the growers being of the opinion that there will be a large yield in the mountain sections where the orchards were above the freezing line during the severe cold weather of January. All of the fruit buds in the higher parts of the lowlands were killed. Lancelot Apples, a grower in the Biglerville section of Smithsburg, predicts a large crop of peaches.

HOME DESTROYED IN NIGHT FIRE

Disastrous Daze Sunday Night Near Two Taverns in which Home Burns while Family are Returning from Social Call. Little Saved.

Fire completely destroyed the two story stone residence of Charles Hershbeck, near Two Taverns, Sunday night about eleven o'clock, together with most of the furniture and all of the wearing apparel belonging to the family, except those which they had on their backs. The fire was discovered upon the return of the family from a social visit.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The building was owned by Jacob Shankbrook and was insured for $1,000. The household goods were insured for $500.

The neighborhood was aroused by the cries of the homeless family and by farmers gathered at the scene. By their efforts they succeeded in saving the other buildings.

After the fire had burned itself out, the walls of the house fell in with a further danger to the other buildings. The residence of Mrs. Peter Forney, two miles from Two Taverns, was the nearest house where the family could find shelter. Mrs. Hershbeck was married to Mr. Adams is also a New Yorker of prominence.

Several automobile parties braved the danger of bad roads and the rather cold weather to visit the fire Sunday afternoon and the opening of the season sold to Decatur and looked over the ground.

ROBERT WHITE LEAVES TOWN

And Now a Reward of Fifty Dollars, is Offered for his Arrest. Brief but Interesting Career in Gettysburg. A Young Englishman.

Some weeks ago a likely looking young Englishman with the picturesque name of Robert White came into Gettysburg, panniless and apparently friendless. He sold a phonograph talk, secured the interest and financial support of a few of our citizens and started out to make good. On Tuesday information was laid against him before Justice of the Peace Lott by the tools from C. S. Sanner, who was the first to come to his rescue when he was down and out. White had left for parts unknown and a reward of $50 is offered for his arrest.

It has been many months since a criminal case, in which apparently any little was involved, has created such excitement as that which the young Englishman leaped into the limelight here at the time of St. James reception when he got into trouble and decided to become an evangelist. One of the principal witnesses were giving accounts of their experiences, "Bob" and "Bugs" Hartman, gave the most interesting account of his part play.

White comes of good parentage, a good family, and was born very well in Leeds, England. About three years ago he came to this country and started in the automobile concern with whom he had been connected in the motherland. It is true this concern withdrew its interest and White drifted to Washington where he secured employment in a business. He had some success and a reward of $50 is offered for his arrest.

From Washington he went to New York City where he had a very hard time of it, but fell in with bad company and went the limit". His parents learned of his downfall and he was cut off completely, keeping him to reform. These facts White told to Sanner and he resolved to lend a helper life. Leaving New York City he came to Gettysburg where without a cent to his name and finally deciding to walk to Gettysburg he did so, arriving here penniless and out and landed in the street. He was taken in hand by Sanner who not only had planned into his car was bedding, but also his clothing, and White was soon the best dressed man in town.

Here he was at once referred to C. S. Sanner, the friend of the unemployed, and told his story. Interested and believing the boy's story, which even now there is no reason to doubt, Mr. Sanner took him in, gave him work at taking care of his automobile, boarded him at his home and the attractive young Englishman started to make good.

That he was worked, made friends here, and was to all appearances thoroughly reformed and bidding fair of conversion at the recent revival meetings, there is no reason to doubt and no one doubt his sincerity at that time but think his downfall has been caused by the fact that he was overwhelmed with the attentions of the fair sex. The news of the better life he was leading has been received enthusiastically by his parents across the sea and letters of thanks and appreciation were received in return. White sent them clippings from local publications to convince them that he was appreciated and his father wrote of his delight at the turn of affairs.

After the young man had continued to Mr. Sanner's employ for several weeks he decided to engage as an automobile salesman again and he accordingly left Gettysburg for Lancaster. He was instrumental in making several sales and apparently was doing well when he disappeared. The automobile business thoroughly. With the knowledge he had gained in the successful business career here, the call of the old life still had its power and he fell by the wayside.

He left Gettysburg last Wednesday, March 29th, and immediately on his tools from his automobile were missed. Information was laid and it was discovered that White sold them to parties in Lancaster. The information that White was demonstrating and for which he was acting as agent. Chief of Police Brenneman and County Detective Wilson are putting forth every effort to apprehend the man and bring him back for a hearing.

BILLY SUNDAY ON OUR EDDIE PLANK

Points in Gettysburg Boy as Example of the True Athlete. Compares him with the Late Rube Waddell and Draws his Lesson.

Taking Eddie Plank as the model athlete, "Billy" Sunday preached to a large audience in the tabernacle at Scranton Saturday night. His subject was "Your Sins will Find You Out," and he drew a graphic comparison between the life of the Gettysburg pitcher and Rube Waddell who died last week. In the course of his sermon he made the following pertinent remarks:

"I was reading the papers the other day of the passing of 'Rube' Waddell whose life was snuffed out. Think of it, only 37 and gone. I tell you, you pay the freight. The old Adam will can't beat the boose game. You have to be a fool to think you can monkey with booze in baseball, but he is gone; struck out in the game of life and he is the mighty greatest pitcher. I tell you, you can't beat that game.

"Plank, great Plank, Plank and Bugs' Raymond started in baseball at the same time. Plank is the most interesting account of his past life."

White views of good parentage, a good family, and was born very well in Leeds, England. About three years ago he came to this country and started in the automobile concern with whom he had been connected in the motherland. Little Margarita was running down the street, blowing a toy balloon, when she slipped and fell prostrate in the mud. "Dear, dear, hon!" she cried tearfully. "Now my nose wear to all dirty." TOWN COUNCIL SAVES MARKET

Margin of One Vote Saves Curb Market for this Summer. Will Regulate Carefully. Many Important Matters before the Council

Through the earnest efforts of its friends Gettysburg's curb market is saved for another year and will be continued this summer, with some changes in its regulations. This action was taken at the meeting of council last evening of the town council after a lively debate in which the majority of the body took part.

The action came in the form of a motion on the part of councilman Musselman, who was appointed to take up the original report of the market committee advising its discontinuance largely on account of mismanagement in the past, the high rise in prices, and the sentiment of the people of town as regarded by the market committee. The ordinance committee recommended the continuance of the institution and the report was adopted with a margin of one vote, the council-men voting as follows:

For the market: Messrs. Butt, Dougherty, Keith, Trostel and Beard.

Against the market: Messrs. Bauchman, Bashman, Stock and Gilbert.

Mr. Dougherty voted for the market after hearing the statement that supplementary ordinances would be entered covering the rules and regulation voiced in the past, namely the bringing of engaged goods to market and the display of same by the actual people who could not purchase them. Mr. Gilbert voted against the motion in favor of the market but would not vote for it under the conditions originally passed covering former objectionable practices.

After the motion was adopted the ordinance committee was instructed to draw up ordinances providing that purchases must themselves remove all goods as soon as bought, and that only producers may sell. Should the market be located in the Square or follow of the whole proposition would be void. There are a number of other matters, to an adjourned meeting on Tuesday evening, April 21. The duties appointed by the council are of an hour. Mr. Butt and Mr. Keith made vigorous opposition to the committee. Mr. Baynsgard's suggestion for the appointment of a person to be regarding automobile speed in the borough was referred to the highway committee.

Chief of Police Emmons and Burgess Lehman were instructed to hear grievances against cash other. Councilman Gilbert was to be appointed and told them to'all their troubles to him. Councilman Musselman was to Messrs. Keith, Gilbert and Dougherty.

Other Matters.

William Bream stated that pavements be ordered on the south side of Carlisle street, from Stratton street, to obligatory committee.

The ordinance was passed repealing the section of the local ordinance requiring the sale and supplying of families with provisions by the Gettysburg Water company. This matter now lies with the poor ordinance committee.

The attention of the highway committee was called to the condition of crossing at the corner of Carlisle and Stratton streets.

Councilman Dougherty suggested that all legged bed conditions of trolley tracks in the borough be called to the attention of the Commissioner. Mr. Turner denied Mr. Gilbert's allegations. Hold over to next meeting.

SCORES BILLY SUNDAY SERMON

Does not Like Sentiments Expressed by Evangelist about Waddell in Sermon in which he Praised Eddie Plank. Lauds Waddell.

Billy Sunday was scored for his recent allusions to the late "Rube" Waddell, baseball player, by baseball players with clean lives, at a banquet held at Philadelphia, Wednesday night, during the speech made by Connie Mack. Mr. Thomas W. Davis, baseball chapman of the Y. M. C. A. of Allentown, brought forth applause when he referred to Sunday's sermon in which Sunday eulogized "Rube" Waddell with "Eddie" Raymond in a comparison with Eddie Plank, baseball pitcher recently. "We have known 'Rube' for eleven years", he said, "and I believe he was a sufferer of tuberculosis, which sooner or later would have caused his death. I do not believe that he was addicted by the use of intoxicating drinks."

Mr. Davis said: "Big, kind-hearted fellow", Dr. Davis said, and his eye glistened and there was a tremor in his voice of the many kind acts the great pitcher, as did the fellow players. "He was the first to help a fallen brother, and the last to leave a player who had been down, and he helped me," he said.

Dr. Davis paid a glowing tribute to Connie Mack and the Athletics when he said that baseball is a clean and manly sport. "Some people criticise ball players as being a set of 'boozers.' Mr. Mack, there is a gentleman, the great leader, Mr. Mack. There is a man who neither drinks, chews or smokes, and who is a gentleman," catching Plank pitching, Melinis at first, Collins at second, Baker at third, and the mighty Baker at third, there is a team that can't be beat, and such a man of whom drinks swears or smokes."

Christy Mathewson writing for this morning's Philadelphia Press says: "Plank is the type of twirler who never appears to have taken care of himself, and he also has the physique that makes one size up his arm. Anybody who saw the Athletics' southpaw in the late games of the world's series in Boston must be convinced that he has a lot of good baseball left in him. Anybody convinced from my point of view."

Both votes were in favor of the results of their labors. The former, it is reported, showed a majority of the majority of citizens as against the institution, while Mr. Miller had a majority for it. Both will be present at the submission of these documents would do nothing concerning the fate of the fish.

ARBITRATE TOLLS, PLEA OF SENATOR

Norris Wants Wilson and England to Pick Board.

COMMITTEE HEARINGS ON

It is Said There is Talk of Prosecuting Papers That Print "Slip Lobby" Adv. as News.

Washington, April 10—Insisting that there is no honest difference of opinion among honest men over the controversy between the United States and England that the United States should not propose its case and surrender its claims of rights without judicial investigation, Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, appeared before the senate committee on interoceanic canals to urge the adoption of his amendment to the pending bill to repeal the clause in the Panama canal act exempting American coastwise vessels of canal in the canalzone trade.

Senator Norris made a vigorous address before the committee on the tolls exemption clause. He declared that the repeal bill sheet bills and resolutions on the subject were not heard.

The Norris amendment provides that the question of the tolls repeal bill shall not be construed as a surrender of any rights that the United States has to exempt its own shipping from tolls and directs the president to invite negotiations for arbitration. Senator Norris said he was in favor of the repeal of the clause, but that the matter "who is to put in the treaty, there is to exempt its vessels from tolls."

Senator Norris said he would favor distribution in favor of American vessels, but that he would not favor discrimination in favor of other nations. He proposed a court of arbitration of five members, two judges of the supreme court of the United States, two from the supreme tribunal of England, with an odd member to be selected by the four. He said the settlement of this question would be "the greatest achievement in the history of creation," he said. He suggested that the United States and England and that President Wilson pick the board.

"The president has already declined to accept the Nobel peace prize as the Great Britain," said Senator Brimow, "and he should be willing to arbitrate."

Senator Thomas, Democrat, spoke in favor of the repeal of the tolls exemption free to all ships of all nations.

Senator Borah declared that the base ballery equipped vigorously advocated the repeal of the tolls exemption repeal by Representative Volmer Heflin, of Alabama, who visited the White House. He came to the senate committee room and made a statement on the expulsion of foreigners from Mexico by President Carranza, but stating that Spanish property will be confiscated.

"The Spaniards have been deported from Mexico because they actively opposed participation in the movement in favor of liberty of the Mexican people. "The expatriation of the Spaniards was necessary in order to save the country in order to save them troubles of a serious character. The Spaniards have intended to inflame the soldiers, in the event of intervention by the United States the Huertistas the penalty is death." Senator Heflin declared that the information indicate that a large Federal army is advancing from Puebla to reconquer the stronghold. Several thousand Federals are reported to General Villa is believed to have been worsted thus far.

ROBBED WHILE VISITING HERE

Parents of Mrs. John F. Wolter Return Home to Find that Burglars Have Removed Money and Valuables. No Arrests are Made.

While Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lockenhagh, of Hanover, were in Germany Saturday evening visiting their daughter, Mrs. John F. Wolter, at the Lincoln Way Hotel, burglars entered their home and stole a new revolver, fifty dollars in money and several hundred tobacco coupons. A watch and a quantity of silverware were left untouched.

Every room in the house was entered and ransacked; the bureau drawers were opened and their contents scattered over the floor; the bed clothing was torn from the beds in a search for money.

The amount of money taken cannot be told, but it is not thought to be over several dollars. A small bank was forced open and about two dollars took, as therefrom. There was also some money under the bureau covers but the amount is not known.

The revolver was a new one and had never been used. Several hunt that the missing said silver table ware were opened but the silverware was left behind. A watch was also left hanging in one of the rooms, and the thieves evidently did not look for for it on their detention.

The burglars displayed considerable nerve as they would turn on the lights in the living room to room. Several neighbors saw the house lighted up but thought the family was at home.

Chief of Police W. W. Breniah was notified and the Hanover officers are on the lookout for the thieves. Several clues to the robbery are being run down.

MORE SMALL POX

Two More Small Pox Cases in Vicinity of Frederick.

Small pox has appeared in Brunswick, near Frederick. Two cases were reported from that town. One person residing on the farm of Henry Lee Schrader, a carpenter, who, about three weeks ago, attended a dance, which a Miss Greeg, of Frederick, attended and who a few days later was stricken with smallpox. The other case is that of Delbert Moore, a truckdriver employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Mr. Moore was never vaccinated, and Schrader was vaccinated when a boy. The vaccination did not "take", as he expressed it.

Charles Wilson, a guest at the Lafayette hotel, York, is sick with smallpox.

The hotel was immediately placed under quarantine, the police prevent the say anyone from entering or leaving the building. Twenty persons in the hostelry be kept in vaccination and most of these, it is said, were in the basement when the quarantine went into effect. The hotel was thoroughly fumigated.

DATE ADVANCED

Odd Fellows' Minstrels Cause Change of Date in Meeting.

The final meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association of Gettysburg for this year will be held in the High School building on Tuesday evening, April 18, instead of on Friday evening, the 17th. The change is made so as not be conflict with the Odd Fellows' Minstrels on Friday night of next week. A full attendance of the association partakes of a social character and usually proves to be the most enjoyable of the entire year.

WITHDRAWS

Matter of York Post Office is again Undecided.

State Senator Harry Washers sent a letter to Congressman A. B. Rossdale asking the withdrawal of his name from consideration as a candidate for postmaster of York. Again it is the move open for the York postoffice. Many are again asserting that Mr. Brodbeck's secretary, Clarence A. Geesey, will eventually head the plum, but there is a strong sentiment developing strongly favorable to the appointment of ex-Congressman E. D. Ziegler.

RAT DESERVES NO MERCY

Has Been Estimated That Its Presence Costs This Country Sum of $187,000,000 a Year.

According to a bulletin issued by the Ohio state board of health, there are more rats in the United States than there are people. The National Humane Society for the Destruction of Vermin estimates that there is at least one rat for every man, woman and child in the British Isles. Similar estimates have been made for Germany, France and Denmark.

The annual cost of each rat to the country has been estimated at $1.00 in Great Britain, $1.20 in Denmark and $1 in France. An experiment of the depredations of rats, Dr. Lantz, in Public Health Bulletin No. 30, cites the following:

"As long ago as 1871, farmer, writing to an agricultural journal, reported that rats had destroyed in one winter about 600 bushels of corn or a total of 2,000 bushels stored in a cribb. In another barn, he reported that rats had robbed him of six entire mangers of barley and 200 or 400 chicks, and still another one admitted that he lost a grain and a pint for one season due to rats as sufficient to keep a family of rats for years.

"The upkeep of a rat in this country is about $1.00 a year. Estimating one rat to each person, $187,000,000 are annually destroyed by rats in the United States at this cost.

"Rats tend to bear young when three months old. They will litter about six times a year and bear from six to 12 at a litter. This remarkable fecundity, coupled with the fact that they are nocturnal in their habits and live in the vicinity of man, makes for them the rat population and emphasizes the difficulty of destruction on a wholesale scale.

SMOKE COST IS IN MILLIONS

Figures Show Wastefulness Which is Characteristic of the American Race.

Experts figure that Pittsburgh's yearly soot emboloss would make a mountain of coal 600 feet high and 600 feet in length, or larger than the Washington monument. The money value of this damage are estimated at $12,000,000 yearly.

Sample tests made some time ago in Chicago of the cost of the smoke nuisance in that city showed that the smudge bill amounted to $50,000 a day, which was about $40,000,000 a year, and the cost of smoke in that city alone is fully as great in proportion to the size as that of Pittsburgh.

This includes only the injury to property. Smoke will kill you dead in its least damage. They will point out how the smoke gets into the throat and lungs and injures the tissues. Physicians will recommend what should diminish the hospitals and doctors' bills, but they will not even approximate for the smoke evil.

The only remedy is to stop smoke, much business"—and we need the business. The people will never be relieved of today will tell you that most of the smoke is caused by wasteful, incomplete combustion, which means bad fuel, poor furnaces, poor boilers and poor equipment. Damage to property, sickness and loss of life.—Power.

Empty Cider Kegs.

The year 1915 will go into history as the year of empty cider kegs. Cider which is to be found in the cellar of the farmer who has a surplus of empty barrels remained empty. The reason for this almost unprecedented condition of affairs is that the failure of the apple crop because of late spring frosts followed by a dry season. The failure of the mills which usually make cider is also given as a reason. This caused a return to primitive methods in order to get a new supply from the popular drink in some places, persons having to go without it. In a general way, the situation or two ago going about among farmers, gives encouragement to the few trees in a sufficiently sheltered position to escape the frosts, which caused by the frost of growing at such a high rate that the trees suffered so greatly destroyed to be slightly by the frosts of March and April.

Differing on Grammar.

In Indianapolis a tablet is to be placed in the high school building in honor of its donor. The proposed inscription contains this sentence: "Whose praise to the man who serves his fellowmen." Some of the trustees object to the "who" ought to be that, and so a controversy over grammar is waging who was truly grammatical in that connection. The dictionaries, the style books, the rules, and they disagreed, one saying "who" is right, the other that "him" referred it to the Literary Digest for the settlement of the row. The decision came in favor of that, on the ground that the sentence referred to the donor personally, whereas if the word "man" was used it would be impersonal. It would be right to use who. There is no doubt that this was the reason for the decision, since that is the reason given in the decision itself.—Columbus Journal.

Ants Repairing Flood Losses.

Ants are very industrious and also very gravelly soil. To use they seem the best workers of all. In the low meadows of our farms swept bare by the recent floods. Every day they bring up much of the fine soil mingled with the gravel and deposit it on top. The ground towards evening looks down. White some of the gravel does slowly disintegrate, the process as a surface-soil producer is far slower than the action of the ants. Perhaps in most soils the angleworm is more beneficial than the ant, but certainly not in the gravelly soils.—Farm and Fireside

MODEL HOMES OF ESSEN WORKMEN

Germany a Leader in Solving Problems of Housing.

GUNMAKER AS A PIONEER.

Foresight of Germans Provided Comfortable and Adequate Housing Facilities For Workers—Krupp Firm Put Idea Into Effect.

The foresight of the Germans was responsible for the providing of comfortable and adequate housing facilities for the workmen, says Wilhelm Wiegand in Town Development. Over fifty years ago it was realized that the investment for efficiency was the most profitable investment possible, and the unsatisfactory housing and the consequent evils which efficiency can be lessened and even cured for that the health of the workmen is the first factor. Part of this hypothesis is now so generally accepted as to need no argument to prove true. But fifty years ago the theory was by no means well received or true, and it must have been difficult to the courageous and far-sighted for the consummation of a visionary idea.

The founder of the great Krupp gun works, Alfred Krupp, however, with his characteristic German sagacity, was perhaps the first to comprehend the concrete value of the vision. So in the year 1861 he began to build on his vast estate a most modest figure were built for the convenience of the Krupp employees. After that the advance was steadily. Within seven years 300 more houses had been added to the colony, and in the short space of four years the number of houses increased until there are now over 4,000. Even this number of dwellings, however, provides for but one-fourth of the employees of the great shops, for the Krupp interests furnish labor for about 40,000.

Unlike other colonies that have been founded by capital alone for the workmen at the least possible cost, the

In the matter of rooms, the proportions are made as money, and although they calculate that the rent will not more than cover the expenses of deterioration must be added that the owner of the Krupp company stands a yearly loss of about $100,000 for the rent of the houses. However, the company has discovered inasmuch the superiority of the fifty years that the efficiency of their workingmen has been tripled and that the loss from sickness and labor difficulties in general has been reduced to a negligible fraction. SAVING LIVES OF INFANTS

Humanitarian Movement One of the Most Successful of Present Day Endeavor.

Among all the humanitarian movements of the Time, there is perhaps none which has been more free from the spectacular and the sensational than that for the reduction of infant mortality. It has been persistent, disputed, quietly and patiently though with vigor and enthusiasm, both by governmental authorities and by private associations, and has not attracted anything wild or noisy in connection with its progress. It has come upon us all-round worldforeseen whom it has come, and it is true that such a thing as infant mortality is sufficiently known, and with sufficient nothing of saying that them is not a great deal more to be done as well that exists, when they haven't been fully appreciated, and about whether it has increased or diminished.

The workers go about the matter very differently. They first inform mortality neither because it is great; nor because it is less than it was 50 years ago, but because they know that the method of proper measures the best suiting of the kind. I must be some sort of the kind. I must be the doorbell of a neat little home, and of the proper measures. She was Mrs. Durant. She was not one to be discouraged. She must was not her name. She had adopted it because it seemed to her a more attractive than her own, and it was. She had not been long in a furnished living room, and after being sure and having made her acquaintance she had gotten out what I wanted to find out about the baby. Then I asked if she would engage to bring a baby to my office.

She said that from what I had told her she knew that I had the right idea of the wrong, while the position I had taken was unimpeachable. She would be glad to bring the baby to my office as for $100, half of which was to be given to the mother and half to me, after the reconciliation. If there was any disagreement she was to get the remainder of the fee. She was to bring the baby every day for a week, if necessary, and without letting her know the object of the visits, and to reconvince her that she owned me a hundred dollars.

This was a bonds I win, talk you in favor of a baby. I told her that I owned very confident of being able to do what I had undertaken, and that there was no bonus consideration. This said my self-confidence was not based on my drawing a check for $50 I gave it to her and told her to send the baby around to the store she had offered. She said that she would bring the baby to her daughter, the latter having been turn the baby to her daughter, the latter having been turn the baby to her daughter, the latter having been turn

PAPER RAILROAD GIVES CONTRACT

Contract Awarded for Construction of Eighty Three miles of Railroad to Connect Gettysburg and Washington. Long on Paper.

The Washington, Westminster and Gettysburg Railway Company has awarded the contract for the construction of an eighty three mile railway system from Brentwood, Maryland, to Gettysburg. So reports the "Engineering News" which states that the Columbia Construction Company, of Washington, has secured the contract.

For years this has been one of the numerous "paper roads" to enter Gettysburg, though it was the only one of the proposed lines that was booked to operate as a steam road. Some difficulties were experienced in Maryland concerning rights of way, it is said, but all of these were settled several weeks ago when the company received the necessary papers. Just now, it is declared on good authority, the only thing that is holding up actual operations is permission to cross another railroad in Carroll county, and once that is secured the way to build will be clear.

The road as planned would run from Brentwood by way of Sandy Springs and Westminster to Littlestown; and from the latter town would complete the last lap of the journey to Gettysburg.

The route lies through fine territory, the entire way, and would connect Gettysburg with Washington and intermediate points by a more direct line than is now afforded. Just how long the line will continue to remain only on paper, however, remains to be seen. There are plenty of Gettysburgers who will believe no new railroad stories until the whistle of the first locomotive is heard or until the first trolley car enters Centre Square.

KILLED EGG THIEF

Gote Pin Thrown by County Girl Strikes Its Mark.

A gate pin in the hand of an Adams County girl brought death to a thieving crow on the farm of Howard Wagner in Latimore township. Miss Leda Fleher, the 10-year-old daughter, went out to the barn on an errand and saw a bold crow extracting a hen egg from a nest. Not knowing any other weapon, Miss Fleher threw a gate pin at the bird and was fortunate enough to kill it.

The Ghost Locomotive

By THOMAS R. DEAN

The address of a president of a society for the advancement of science proclaiming a statement that was taken in robert Fenwick to be the investigations of societies for psychical research but served the purpose of setting stories. Now that societies are beginning to look with more favor, or at least with less bolderence, upon stories these stories will be more likely to bulk aside to come more to the forward where scientific contempt has for many years been buried them. Here is one that has recently been resurrected.

Thirty years or a quarter of a century ago, away out on the Canadian Pacific railroad, Bill Burton, while driving a engine on a ninety night over a road that had been washed by heavy rains for four days, came suddenly upon a landslide. Bill reversed the lever and jumped, striking his head on a boulder, and was instantly killed. The conductor, stepped within a few feet of the slide, then began to back. There was nothing he beliled it but a caboose, in which were two lumbermen and their seven assistants. They noticed the shock, but, being in the rear of the train, did not understand it and didn't know a few minutes after that they were backing into another landslide.

Fireman Jones, who had driven Burton's engine for years, was killed. Engineer Burton, while driving the engine, was not killed, but was thrown out of it and didn't know a few minutes after that they were backing into another landslide.

The first train after the new line was opened for business carried Burton's body to Kamloops, for they doubted up on the caboose and the rear of the train then went back.

One who knew Burton intimately remarked at the time of his death that he was never sure but he had been killed. He was a very sensitive man, and the inner workings of his head was his own life by jumping at the expense of even a slight nerver or nervousness. His leaving his engine screwed with the throttle so wide open that driven his entirle. Another friend, also an engineer, said: "Yes, and I'll bet a dollar to a dollar that the engineer of the caboose was also screwed, for there was reasonably both came to a stop one behind the other on the level track.

Blatley, noting that the danger was past, stopped the engine and then moved ahead again. The light before him revealed the fact that it was useless to avoid danger, the put on his regulator, and in a few seconds passed the moment to get a signal that the backing train was coming on behind him. But he was put on the other engine, said engineer, and he could not see the signal as he could the retreating engine just ahead of him.

All of a sudden the engineer heard a terrific crash behind him and saw another engine ram. and the light went out. He had no more doubt that he was in the land assumed something that he was holding a throttle wide open. He put on the regulator, leaving down when approaching the next station, but he went on and on and didn't see or hear anything.

In fact, there wasn't any work that he could do. He sat down and surfeited it iron, and Blatley pulled on to the next station, and there he was stopped. When asked if he had run through any signals he answered that he couldn't answer for a time, and when he finally did so he said that he knew anything about the place whence he had come from. He was asked if he had run by any signals on the road, and he answered that he couldn't remember.

"All right, Blighy" he said. "I'll have to put a different man on you, for I don't want a to say anything about the matter. You are off duty now and have been overstrained, and that has made you nervous. But the men on the road are easily influenced by a story, and I don't want any that is to go to have your illusions out on."

Blatley's nerves were knit pretty close, the door was locked, and he left, but perhaps little Burton's ghost was up and down on the anniversary of his death. They looked up the date and found that the accident and the two occasions on which the backing light was seen corresponded. But the end of November, the day Burton was killed.

After that Blatley made the same agreement had to get engineers to take a train put the place was on the night of the anniversary. One of the men, Tom Logan, who had been connected with the road for many years and had never been in an electronic life, used to do the job. The president and superintendent went on the locomotive on one anniversary, and they swear they heard Burton away, for nothing to be seen of the headlight nor has anyone been seen of it since.

Strom Bath Good for Ferns.

A steam bath has a wonderful effect on ferns. Place the whole table and the plants up to the bathroom, close the door and window, and fill the bath with hot water. Let the plants stand in this hot, steamy air for two or three hours, then gradually clear the air so that the plants become accustomed to the ordinary atmosphere before they are replaced in their customary position.

Salts as a Fertilizer.

Salts, especially when accompanied by plumber and lightning, has a fertilizing effect upon the soil. There is almost always ammonia in the air and in the rain that falls to the earth. It has been calculated that a quart of rain water contains about one-eighteenth of a grain of ammonia.

SMALL POX CASE IN GETTYSBURG

Man Supposed to be Recovering from Dread Disease in Gettysburg for Past Three Weeks, Mingling with People. Just Found Out.

Charles Sheeler, of Baltimore, a small pox suspect, has been in Gettysburg for the last twenty days, living at the home of Emery Dougherty, working at the brick plant, and mingling generally with the people of the town.

The first intimation of any such condition existing here was received last Friday afternoon when Dr. J. R. Dickson, County Medical Inspector, informed of Sheeler's presence in town by the State Department of Health. Sheeler was in Baltimore before coming here on March 22nd but had no medical attention.

Mrs. Della Seddicum, with whom he boarded, is under quarantine in Baltimore, as well as William Roddy, of Baltimore, a brother who shaved him while the eruption was on Sheeler's face. Roddy's case has been diagnosed as small pox, but others are in the Municipal Quarantine in Baltimore with small pox, supposed to have been contracted by Sheeler the man who has been going about Gettysburg for about two weeks. Dr. Hunt has stated that Sheeler worked in a Baltimore laundry but the last few days was another employee was placed under quarantine.

Immediately upon being notified by Dr. C. J. Hunt, Associate Chief Medical Inspector of the Pennsylvania Health, Dr. J. R. Dickson visited the Dougherty home at 34 Baltimore street, where he learned that Sheeler lived there as a boarder with Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty. He is a cousin of the latter.

On Saturday Dr. Hunt instructed Dr. Dickson to take entire charge of the case, instructing him to quarantine Sheeler and to see that the house was properly disinfected. Dr. Dickson visited him at the brick plant where he had been working and made an examination of his body. He found imminent evidence of the eruption from which indicated either a mild case of small pox or a severe case of chicken pox. Sheeler admitted that he had not received medical attention in Baltimore and he was accordingly put under quarantine in that city.

Dr. C. J. Hunt, chief medical inspector of Pennsylvania, visited Gettysburg on Tuesday afternoon, examined Sheeler and pronounced it small pox. They are great winter layers; in one year of 365 days we have had 160 eggs each day during December, 1912. Just the strain to get our blood in your hen; a setting or two will start you right on the road to "Hen Fruit" you've kind that pays? FOR MAINTENANCE OF PUBLIC GROUNDS

Parent Teachers Association Discusses Advisability of Taking up the Task of Caring for Kurtz' Grove. Large Final Meeting.

The question of whether or not the Parent Teachers' Association of Gettysburg shall assume the responsibility of maintaining the new Kurtz Playground as at expense of from $500 to $700 a year came before the April meeting of that organization Tuesday evening for discussion.

Some of the members claimed that the organization had been instrumental in securing Mr. Kurtz's interest in the playground, and that all over the country the care of playgrounds was one of the forms of work carried on by such associations as the Gettysburg organization of parents and teachers. Another plan for the maintenance and care of the grounds provided that the Borough Council or the financial association to be composed of five or more members from the Parent Teachers' Association, Sunday School and some representative business and professional men's Association, one from each school men, the entire body to number seven.

In order to consider these ideas the following committee was appointed to make a report at the next regular meeting to be called for Monday May 4: Prof. C. G. Weikert, Supt. of Schools, Charles B. Dougherty, Wm. Arch and Mrs. Harry Bucher.

Among the recent activities of the association it was reported that three children will be sent to the summer session at the schools of town, through contributions made by members of the school authorities, were now attending as a result of the efforts of the association. Twenty of the children are in a recent meeting pictures were shown, the proceeds of which will go to the purchase of new dishes and spoons for the annual banquet of the organization and the purchase to buy knives and forks for the use of the domestic science department of the High School. It was further reported that a committee of the association were appointed to interest the county commissioners in the matter of outdoor gymnasiums.

Mrs. Robert C. Miller and Mrs. Edward Pfeffer were elected delegates to the international convention of Mothers' Congress at Washington next week. Mrs. Arch declined to be one of the three state delegates from Gettysburg.

The attendance was unusually large Tuesday evening and nearly all the members had present with invitations of parents. The banner was captured by Miss Margaret Sheely's room with two parents. The girls were pursuant to the school until 8:45.

A delegation of members from the Arendtsville Parent Teachers' Association were present at the meeting and speeches were made by Hiram G. Hay and E. Cecil Beitzel, secretary of a recent meeting of their association which a number of Gettysburg people attended. The two men followed the next day by a vote on the question of the new P. S. building and the question was carried 72 to 2. Prof. C. G. Weikert and other address of the evening suggesting various means of securing the finances for the new building in the schools.

The entertainment part of the program was very good and included several selections by the school band, orchestra, a violin solo by Mr. Baker accompanied by Mrs. J. R. Baker; piano solo, Wilma Sheads, accompanied by Miss. E. H. Markley, accompanied by Mrs. A. L. Rogers.

The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments by the entertainment committee. This was the last regular session for the year.

WILL RECEIVE BOUNTY CLAIMS

County Commissioners at their Regular Weekly Meeting Decide to Receive Claims now and Make Payment on September the First

At Tuesday's meeting of the Adams County commissioners it was decided to receive bounty claims after May 1, 1914, covering bounties for all moles, bobcats and animals killed between July 25, 1913 and that date. Claimants may file their claims any time between now and the first day of September and should be careful to send along the scalps or skins of the animals that may be slight chance of mistake in forwarding checks.

All bounty claims provided for under the Act of 1907 were called for in the summer of 1913 by the commissioners of this county and have been, awarded, in the State under an appropriation made by the legislature of 1913. This claims for animals killed prior to July 25, 1913 can be allowed to the State paid up to that date.

Under the bounty Season, act of 1913 it is provided that one half of the bounty claims moneys shall be appropriated by the legislature by the several counties, the payment of bounties on noxious animals.

The act of July 25, 1911 provides for the taking of the scalps of the animals and writing the certificate of service as 50 cents. The Auditing General has decided shall not be paid by the State and consequently must not be included in claims presented to the county commissioners. The penalty for attempting to receive bounty money for hawks and owls other than the great horned owl—in addition to the great horned owl—in addition to the penalty that may be imposed for perjury—is a fine of not less than $100 or more than $500, or an imprisonment of not less than 30 days nor for each dollar of fine imposed. The penalty for killing the deer, which is 50 cents, the squirrel's for fee writing the certificate is the same. It can be issued by any justice of the peace or alderman.

The commissioners, at their meeting Tuesday, decided to try to get an accurate census of the population in Gettysburg. The county holds annual meetings at the rate of a dollar for each foot lot, provided for by the county commissioners following the census of Gettysburg. Many of those lots have since been divided and it is the intention of the county to have the lots and the rentals according to the size of the divided lots.

WILL IMPROVE PEN MAR PARK

Western Maryland will Take Park in Charge and Make Numerous Improvements. Expect to Spend Large Amount of Money.

That Pen-Mar Park will be in full blast this season is expected as the result of a meeting of the Western Maryland officials, Waynesboro trolley officials and citizens interested in the park.

It is understood that the Western Maryland has extensive improvements under consideration. Probably $15,000 will be spent on the park before the park is opened.

C. F. Emmert, general passenger agent of the Western Maryland, and Chief Engineer Pratt were among those who were at the park. Mr. Stewart is vitally interested in the improvements and is working very earnestly to make them a reality.

If the present rumor becomes a realized fact the park will be improved to a much greater extent than it has been in the past 20 years. The probable date for opening the park in much earlier than it has ever been.

The project of Pen Mar Park is not one that simply concerns the Western Maryland Railway, but is vitally interested among the railway, the amusement promoters, and those who enjoy the mountain. It is believed that, the Railway Board in making up its new passenger schedule will keep in mind the fact that it provide more trolley service than in former years.

It is understood that the Hagerstown end of the road has been much more profitable than the Baltimore end and will accordingly receive more consideration under the new management of the road.

BATHROOM SHOCKS.

Keep Away From Electric Fixtures While Your Shoe is Wet.

A man is in much greater danger from electricity when bathing a bath than under ordinary conditions, as the surface of the body when moist offers much less resistance to the current than when dry. Persons have been killed while bathing by current that would in most cases be felt but not severe, says Cosmos of Paris.

Bathtubs filled in the Society of Legal Medicine of the case of a lady killed by a shock while in her bath room at the moment when she was between the two poles of which there was a difference of potential of more than 110 volts.

In ordinary circumstances, owing to the great resistance of the human body, such a small electromotive force presents no real danger, but when the circuit contains, as in the case experimented on, a shunt of water of little resistance (5,000 and more than 100 milliamperes may pass through the organism, which is quite sufficient to produce death by tetanization of the respiratory muscles.

Current of low potential is also dangerous in a bathroom. It should be remembered that currents of feeble intensity can produce sudden death if arterial tension capable of causing sudden death is present with a weak heart.

Slight tensions, enabling currents of four to five hundredths to pass, have quite a different effect. They do not appreciably affect the heart, but the modification of the tissues produced at the point of contact at once causes a considerable resistance to the passage of the current. This tolerably strong for the organism is not sufficient to cause intoxication of the respiratory muscles, and the tissues are scarcely purely touched.

Suppose also observed a case of electrocution in a stereoscopic bathroom under lower than 110 volts. There was no burn at the point where the circuit entered, but at the autopsy the brain showed that the characteristic lesions of asphyxia and even actual hemorrhages.—Translation For the Literary Digest.

They Looked Dangerous.

A little three-year-old boy, who from time of infancy had been under the care of doctors and trained nurses, was visiting his grandmother after convalescence from bronchitis. An open fire aroused his fancy and he asked the sparks, which fell incessantly on the hearth, to know, "Grandma, are those red spots germs?" Christian Register.

An Episode of the Balkans

By ALBERT KENYON

When the Balkan states had expelled the Turk and were anxious lest the powers should intervene and isolate their ambitious crotchets in favor of two powers most able to help or harm them, Austria and Germany and Russia.

At this time Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria sent a young man in his service to the emperor of Germany to effect certain indiscretions for him to or from Austria. This person was Boris Meloff, a very determined young man, and the indiscretions he effected for him were concerned. was well adapted to the task, and, although he spoke the Austrian with more on the switch to Prince Ferdinand Bulgaria, and Meloff was liable to be subjected to a close search for anything very hot.

Suggestions For Breakfast.

"Where would you suggest?" asked Boris.

"I will think it over and let you know later," she said.

Boris gave her the dispatch that she might read it, and while she was doing so he ate several his valise, which she had packed for him. When she had finished the dispatch, addressed to his imperial master, she said: "I have it! Those chicken, where every one would see it, and no one would suspect that it was about to take the necessary to eat one, and then throw away the bones."

"Bravo," she said, "never is there in you. Now, go, and may you have a safe voyage. It will be safest for on your person. Have your passport ready, person and the dispatch in your vest pocket."

The young husband scrutinized his banner in the mirror, kissed his wife and children goodby and sallied forth.

Boris was traveling incognito north westward from Sofia, and Reims went to Belgrade, the route lying through Servia and Austria. There were Indian troops on the train, and he had not been long on the train before he knew that there were Austrian officers who had been informed of his errand. He gave out a report that he was going to be stationed. So he kept his nest to himself. He had a letter to a friend at Reus his wife, which he was tempt to read it, but he knew that he dare not. Besides, she had distinct to by charged him not to read it and should lose the dispatch. In that case he would be shot as a suspicion.

On reaching Belgrade a man stopped him as he was whispered to him that his wife, Kristina, had sent him to say that if he would go to the Hotel Metropole he would learn something to his advantage. He followed the man to the obscure hotel at that point. The man handed him a note from his wife, written in her well known hand and signed with her name. She requested the dispatch to take from the train, it be returned to her. She would have a guide for Budapest. Boris hesitated; but the request was reasonable, his wife, he reasoned to do so. Going to the man in a room in the upper story where they would not be observed he opened the letter and put it in the pocket of the package.

Then was the last Boris saw of the man or the package. After leaving Belgrade the train ran for the moment the train and, not finding him, was in search of his valise. His great wonder was how the fellow could have got at his wife. Remembering she by her he was to read from her contained a message to her husband, he took the packet, he opened and read it.

The dispatch said in the letter that she had no hope of his getting the dispatch through, because she knew that he had commissioned a friend to retreat to no Budapest. Boris was going to Reims with an important dispatch, and the friend offered to go in his place. Knowing wife that would secure it for a money consideration, Kristina's agent was to throw others who were after the murder of the man. The agent would put the price for the note and hurded the dispatch to him.

"Sir," continued Kristina's letter, "if you have read this message in your valise you will find a gun him the dispatch. I cannot tell you how, since the private letter to the war office would be in the same package. The dispatch you will find in the lining of the valise. I am only strangers to us—would you will please be careful, and, remembered, for he who thinks he has the dog-in the end has the dog to feed."

Boris was more delighted at reading a letter from his wife than at finding the dispatch, and set to work to find the lining of the valise. He found it, and in it a copy of short letters, which he intended to take with him to Ferdinand.

MANY GIFTS FOR THE ORPHANAGE

Hoffman Orphanage Near Littlestown, Reports Gifts From Generous Friends. Boys Need Good Food in Order to Work well.

Rev. J. Stewart Hartman, superintendent of the Hoffman Orphanage, near Littlestown, has written the following interesting letter from that institution:

Generally a number have done great favors, and we want to write of them. Some have sent us only small gifts, not do ourselves, and you will want to know so that by way of inquiry you may undertake something for us next.

Smith's Station and the Dubs' congregations, of the West Manheim charge, Rev. J. H. Hartman, pastor, have generously supplied us for the year with home-made soap. This necessary article is hard to procure, even if we had the money to buy.—You should see that Dr. Dubs then built a bath of doing this for us. So that when our supply is exhausted, it is only necessary to advise them, and it will be replenished.

Potatoes have been the burden of frequent appeals during the year, and generously responded to, and always made. Somehow it is difficult to arrange satisfactorily for the purchase of our robust boys without potatoes. Then, too, they are often the gift of three bushels from Abraham Bankert, of Silver Run, Md., came. three months remain until the harvest time.

The Ladies' Guild of the Reformed church of Littlestown, and the Ladies' Aid Society of the congregation at Manchester, have both advised us that they will help to do certain things in connection with the housekeeping. The former will furnish and mature a contribution, and the latter will furnish the favorite garments for the girls. We know of others who are planning to do things that old, but we are holding the command, "Brighten up," which is sometimes a task many times more fortuner. During the past week we have had a visit from Aide and estimates of assistance dis-tances are un-thousands of dollars, and miles, as is struck Baltimore, New York Avenue.

Cleaning Piano Keys.

Water should never be used to clean the keys of a piano, as it destroys their polish. Rub them with a cloth dampened in alcohol, which will remove all yellow stains and make the keys perfectly white again.

George Zinn has returned to Rock Falls, Illinois, after visiting for some time at his home in Littlestown, with friends and relatives in town.

SCHOOL BOARD CANNOT AGREE

Fail to Elect Successor to Prof. Calvin Hamilton and Matter will have to Go to Court. Political Lines are Sharply Drawn

By failing Thursday evening to elect a successor to Prof. Calvin Hamilton, late president of the School Board, the Littlestown High School has fifth member through appointment by the Courts. Two school code provides that, in the event of the death of a member, the other members of the board may themselves elect some one to fill the vacancy, provided such election is accomplished within thirty days.

The period expired Friday and no selection has been made. Thursday night five ballots were cast and last week several other votes were taken, all failing to result in a choice. The last ballot was the seventh.

The membership of the Presbyterian church was increased by thirty two on Sunday morning, the largest number admitted at one time in many years. Of these, five were by letter from other churches and the remainder by confession of faith. Of the letter number thirteen were received into the catechetical class.

A recent owners of the membership of the Presbyterian church resulted in contributions to mission work of $267 or several times that amount. Considerable to this branch of church activity. It is the custom of the congregation to have a collection for the special purpose each month.

Sixteen new members, received into the Trinity Reformed church on Palm Sunday, took their first Communion on Easter Sunday morning. Six other new members were received on Friday, bringing the total to twenty two. The offerings on Easter Sunday were $172.25.

Ten new members were received at the Memorial United Brethren church on High street Sunday. There were three infant baptisms.

In all the churches the decorations of last Sunday were unusually fine and most profuse and the various houses of worship were filled to their limit. Easter gush. The ideal weather helped to make the attendance large and good congregations were present every where.

MANY JOIN THE TOWN CHURCHES

Various Denominations in Gettysburg Receive Additions to their Membership on Easter and during the Days Preceding.

The Easter season was marked by the admission of many new members to the various churches of Gettysburg.

At St. James Lutheran church Sunday morning two hundred and one new members were received. Of these 119 were confirmed, 59 were received by letter from other churches, 24 by adult baptism, and 19 by restoration. The additions on Sunday bring the membership of this church to about 1850. At the afternoon service in the church there were eight infant baptisms.

The membership of the Presbyterian church was increased by thirty two on Sunday morning, the largest number admitted at one time in many years. Of these, five were by letter from other churches and the remainder by confession of faith. Of the letter number thirteen were received into the catechetical class.

A recent owners of the membership of the Presbyterian church resulted in contributions to mission work of $267 or several times that amount. Considerable to this branch of church activity. It is the custom of the congregation to have a collection for the special purpose each month.

Sixteen new members, received into the Trinity Reformed church on Palm Sunday, took their first Communion on Easter Sunday morning. Six other new members were received on Friday, bringing the total to twenty two. The offerings on Easter Sunday were $172.25.

Ten new members were received at the Memorial United Brethren church on High street Sunday. There were three infant baptisms.

In all the churches the decorations of last Sunday were unusually fine and most profuse and the various houses of worship were filled to their limit. Easter gush. The ideal weather helped to make the attendance large and good congregations were present every where.

NO BASE BALL LEAGUE HERE

Various Towns Included in Proposed League Fail to Show the Necessary Enthusiasm and Proposition Goes by Default.

The plan to organize a four team inter-town league for Adams County and vicinity has failed, and baseball fallen to pieces and no organized base ball will be played in this immediate vicinity this season.

Fairfield, where the movement originated, has no base ball diamond available for fast playing and the interest there is not great. A stated meeting of the league, which was to be held in Fairfield, was called to order in the grounds. The base ball extension of the fair grounds was to be used for the meeting, but no one appeared and the meeting was not held.

Conditions are about the same in Littlestown, Hanover and Gettysburg. Littlestown has a diamond, but the interest there is not great. Hanover has a diamond, but the interest there is not great. Gettysburg has a diamond, but the interest there is not great.

Gettysburg, in fact, took the first step toward organizing a league, voted to enter the league, and appointed a committee to raise funds. The committee was "nothing doing" apparently from start to finish, and failed to show any signs of enthusiasm.

Sunday School base ball will receive the usual attention during the year and may be counted upon to provide the best amateur entertainment that the town may desire. The schedule will start on June first.

BOLD HOLD UP

Jumps from Car, Holds up and Robs Conductor.

One of the boldest highway robberies ever pulled off in this section was pulled off Thursday night on the Western Maryland Railway station on the mountain Saturday afternoon.

Conductor Rebert Weaver, Altoona, was at the station awaiting the arrival of the passenger train for Hagerstown when a freight swept slowly through the station. A rear brake man of the train had passed when suddenly a bewhiskered, ragged hobo jumped on the rear platform.

Running up to Hess he demanded his money. The conductor refused and, continuing a little over three dollars, was handed it. The conductor, however, visitor swiftly ran his nimble fingers through the purse. With an expression of disappointment he threw it back into his pockets and deftly removed the watch and chain from the vest pocket.

Hess, now thoroughly frightened, made no more resistance, however. After a glance at the battered timepiece the tramp handed it back to the owner with a contemptuous remark that it wasn't worth carrying away.

Just as unceremoniously as he had called, the rough-looking one hid alike and jumped on the train near the hill-end.

When Hess had fully recovered his composure, he was fast disappearing in the distance.

HOY NOT FOUND

Not Believed that Lad is with Gypsy Band.

Sheriff Sing of Logansport on Sunday made a trip to the gypsy camp near Hancock to make a search for Warren Hoffman, the seven-year-old Philadelphia boy, who was kidnapped over three and one-half years ago and is with the gypsies. A thorough search was made but no trace of the boy was found. It is not believed that the missing youth is with the gypsies. The information which caused the search was received from Philadelphia stating that a woman who was in the employment of McClarrick was seen in the gypsy camp.

STOCK KILLED IN WRECK

Cattle and Hogs in Cars Derailed on Bermudian Grade.

Twelve head of cattle, four hogs and one calf were killed when seventeen cars freight No. 704 on the Western Maryland Railway, left the rails two miles east of Hagerstown Saturday night. The brake rigging falling from one of the cars to the track caused the wrecking of the six rear cars, three of which were loaded with live stock. A large number of cattle escaped, but all were finally rounded up. The track was blocked for several hours.

Edward Rose spent Easter with friends in Hanover.

By F. A. MITCHEL

Tuesday in front of the court of Pierre between Mr. Sautois and Mr. Bachelin, electrician by the way, I came to a pleasant-looking, well-fed-looking cottage. A boy often came and went in front of it, and I would have trusted to cross my bankrupt drawer and to have sent him to be hanged, yet I never saw a finer model of a child of his age. I am sure that I should have learned that he lived in the cottage with his mother, a widow; that his father was dead; that he was the idol of his father's death a few years before, and that he was the pride of the place.

Curious to know something more of the subject, I asked the boy if he would consent to his mother the compliments of an artist. He replied that he was a sketching tour and the matter for the night under her roof. He ran away with my message and soon returned to say that his mother would be happy at least to receive a visit from monsieur. I entered the cottage, and after the usual compliments and, alleging the object of my visit, I requested permission to the child to his home.

"Madame," I said, "I present, his mother, as extraordinary looking as he not. I shall have no trouble in finding a model for these two contents and another for the prizes to be awarded in the fall.

It will be some weeks, however, before I shall require the boy, and I will call for him at the time. I will make a sketch of the head, then forming the remote. In this way the agreement was concluded, and the pets and fills up the house.

The next day I drove to the banks of the side ditch and go up one side of the road and then down on the other

Consequently, The road is always dropped to the ditch, and the model is at the drop. With a good, strong pair of boots I went to the ditch and began to dig about three or four miles of a ditch. I was not long in finding a model to my unlimited good earth ready. In the course of the day I had dug about three or four miles of a ditch and had found

STRANGE GROWTH AFFLICTS PASTOR

Rev. Clifton G. White Undergoes Radium Treatment to Remove Growth of Remarkable Formation. Is Expected to Recover.

A remarkable case is attracting the attention of surgical circles in Baltimore, Harrisburg and other nearby cities. The subject is Rev. Clifton G. White, a Lutheran minister, of Wilson Corner, who was graduated from Gettysburg College in 1907 and from the Seminary three years later.

Rev. White is the son of one of the oldest freaks known to the medical and surgical world. A growth which from appearances to the layman looked like a mass, appeared on his leg. His health became impaired and for the last two years he suffered a great deal because of the growth. As the pastor had always led an active life and was generally amongst because of his condition. He put up with it until he could contest himself no longer.

Dr. Joseph G. Bloogood, of Baltimore, was called in consultation where he met Rev. Mr. White and Dr. Hershey, of Harrisburg. It was then that Dr. Bloogood made an announcement which was a surprise to all who were familiar with the case. After the first examination the noted surgeon said that he believed that although if an operation were performed and the growth removed, the pastor would be partly grown body of a child would be born imbedded in the flesh of the patient's leg.

As Rev. Mr. White's condition was growing worse and the growth would have probably been the matter of only a few months, it was decided that something must be done at once. He was hurried to Baltimore and taken to the Johns Hopkins hospital, where the x-ray was put into use, but it is said that the results have been unsatisfactory.

Rev. White was escorted to, and it is said that the result proved Dr. Bloogood's diagnosis to be correct. The growth at the time of the x-ray was enough. It was found impossible to remove it at that time, but it is believed could because of its inextricable entanglement with the muscles and nerves.

About three weeks ago it was decided to use radium in the treatment. Rev. White was then taken to Baltimore to Dr. Howard A. Kelly's sanatorium. As yet the treatment has not been satisfied with the treatment and it is said the patient considered at the hospital improvement.

Rev. Mr. White's case is similar to that of the case would startled the medical world a few months ago. It was that of Mrs. Mary Boddy, wife of the Lisletown Methodist church, at Lisletown, Del., who was operated on by Rev. E. B. Davidson. Interment in St. Canmel cemetery.

ONE SAVED, CUT CAN'T LIVE

Lumber Schooner Wrecked Off Long Branch, N. During Northeast Gale.

Sealright, N. J., April 17. — The bleakly of a schooner which went ashore off the Life Saving station at Long Branch, N. J., was established by life savers as the Charles A. Barkley, from Jacksonville, Fla., for New York.

The schooner is a three masts, and Captain Hardy, his wife and all the members of the crew except one are missing. Mrs. Hardy was found in the cabin, unconscious and is attempting to launch a lifeboat. It is reported her condition is serious.

Atchison, who remained on deck, was washed ashore. He is badly bruised by a line shot across the bow of the schooner. Several bodies have been washed up in the breeches buoy that was used to rescue the crew when the seething sea. Life savers on shore then ran with the line, dragging Atchison upon the beach more dead than alive.

He was rushed to the Monmouth hospital in an ambulance. A bullet in his shoulders and one leg were broken. It is believed that he can recover from his injuries.

Captain Hardy and his wife it is believed that at least eight men, who were on deck, were washed over the lifeboat failed to weather the big storm.

The Charles S. Barkley was heavily laden with lumber and left Norfolk for Newark, N. J.

The schooner was first sighted several miles off the beach, making hard weather of it and rolling in the trough of the seas. Despite the efforts of her crew, she was driven in close to the shore and struck. Until she was plainly visible to the life savers on the beach.

There was an attempt to launch a boat from the life saving station, but a number which was swept from the decks of the schooner by the huge waves and battled in the breakers and undertow.

The life savers have turned all their efforts toward rescuing bodies and the wreck, which is now broken up by the deadly undertow it may be impossible to float her and she will become a total loss.

Two men were drowned off Great Egg Harbor Inlet, Wednesday, April 13, when the steel tugboat Arica was capsized in a northeast gale. Both men were members of the crew of the tug, it is said. BULLET WOUND FINALLY KILLS

Mrs. James Adams, of Arendtsville, Dies in Harrisburg Hospital from Wound Inflicted by her Daughter in Play. Remarkable Dreams.

After lingering for ten days with a bullet in her brain, Mrs. James Adams, of near Arendtsville, died shortly before midnight Friday in the Harrisburg hospital where she was taken the day after her fifteen year old daughter had fired the fatal shot. Two sons, John and Edward Adams, and a daughter, Mrs. Annie Bitler, were in Harrisburg when the end came.

The tragedy occurred at the Adams home on the evening of March 31 as she and her daughter, Virgie, were playing in an up-stairs room. They had been handling a revolver which was apparently empty and which they had failed to discharge a number of times when they pulled the trigger. Feeling sure that it contained no load the daughter pointed it at the mother and this time it sent a bullet straight at Mrs. Adams' head, the missile striking between her eyes and lodging in the brain.

Arendtsville physicians advised her immediate removal to the hospital at Harrisburg as specialists there stated that her death was precisely inevitable. Several days ago her condition became very alarming and she sank rapidly until death came late Friday night. Mrs. Adams was partly conscious several times after the shooting and asked for her children.

A remarkable coincidence in connection with the tragedy was the experience of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Wolf, living in Youngstown, Ohio, who, within a short period before the accident, dreamed four times of receiving a telegram, each bearing the dying, come quickly". The day after the shooting she was handed a telegram and before opening it guessed rightly knew what it would say. The telegram read just as had her dreams for four days. Samuel Adams, a son living in Toledo, Ohio, also had a dream of getting a telegram containing news of his mother's condition, before it was received.

Mrs. Adams' maiden name was Mary Jane Sharrer. Her home before her marriage was in Buchanan Valley. She passed her fifty second birthday several weeks ago. She has seven children, John and Virgie Adams, at home; Edward Adams, of Arendtsville; Joseph Adams, of Chambersburg; Samuel Adams, of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Annie Bitler, of Middletown; and Mrs. Mary Wolf, of Youngstown, Ohio.

She also leaves three sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Hannah Musselman of near Fairfield; Mrs. Andrew McKenrick, of Buchanan Valley; Mrs. William Bentz, of Hanover; Frank, Daniel and Emanuel Baker, all living in Buchanan Valley.

Funeral Tuesday morning at St. Ignatius' church Buchanan Valley.

PEACHES NOT HURT

Fruit Growers Alley Fear of People Who Believe Disease was Done.

The low temperature this week following the heavy rain caused much alarm on the mountain as to the condition of the fruit buds. It was feared that the peach crop might have suffered. However, from latest reports the prospects for fruit growers say that no damage was done. There was no harm from Thursday night's cool weather and the prediction is made that there will be a very bountiful crop, unless there is a severe cold wave. In this latter case, the buds, which are well advanced, would be frozen.

WANT EMMITSBURG ROAD

Meeting to be Held to Express Desire for Frederick-Gettysburg Road.

The Highway Commissioners of Maryland and Pennsylvania will meet at Emmitsburg next week for the purpose of considering the construction of an improved road from Frederick to Gettysburg, the continuation of each State to build the portion of road within their respective States. Maryland now has a road from near Frederick to Emmitsburg, and to complete the portion in Maryland's line less than three miles of road would be necessary to be built. There is about a mile of the road from Frederick to Creagerstown, which belongs to the Frederick and Woodsboro Pike Company, which would have to be purchased to complete the road, and a road would have to be built from Emmitsburg to the Pennsylvania line.

Rufus Weaver, of Washington, D. C., is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver, on Baltimore street.

START TO MARK LINCOLN WAY

Highway from Gettysburg to the Susquehanna River is now being Marked. Work under Direction of York Chamber of Commerce.

Work was started on Tuesday to mark officially the route of the Lincoln Way between the Susquehanna River and Gettysburg. The operations are under the direction of the York Chamber of Commerce which held a special meeting Monday night at which A. R. Pardington, of Detroit, Vice president of the Lincoln Highway Association, was present and made an address.

It was decided to place electrically lighted steel arches at the eastern and western limits of York, extending into the route of the Lincoln Way. Chambersburg has a similar arch and it is expected that this town might with perfect propriety, erect arches at the east and the west limits of the Junction of Springs avenue and Buford street.

The meeting at York Monday night was largely to prevent a change in the route of the Lincoln Way which would take the city out of its scope. The route originally adopted takes the road from Philadelphia, through Coatesville, Lancaster, Columbia and York to Gettysburg; and from here west through Chambersburg and the regular western route.

A recent effort was inaugurated to have the road from Philadelphia Baltimore and Washington to Gettysburg and from here west. Monday night's meeting, it is believed will save the highway to York.

Mr. Pardington stated that the impression that congress is to ultimately build a highway from the States and counties in the states are adopting the plan of building a highway, and that forward in taking action, he explained.

York much of the work and material for the two arches will be furnished free of charge by business men of that city.

MYSTERY ISLANDS

Some of the World's Black Spots That Defy White Men.

HAVE NEVER BEEN EXPLORED.

Their Inhospitable Shores or Savage Natives Bar the Way to Those Who Would Learn Their Secrets—Fate of Many Explorers.

Leaving out of consideration the still unsolved portions of the arctic and antarctic regions and the interior of lands of extreme miles of them—there are many spots on the globe of which scarcely more than the name is known. Some of them have yet to become familiar to the white man's eye, and the smile or frown upon the features and the heart unknown.

New Guinea is one of the few comparatively near unexplored countries ready for the explorer, but there are a number of islands that retain a mystery to the world at large and that will probably remain for many years to come.

One of these tales of mystery is Trinidad, which, were not so long ago an explorer met its fate. His name was Fawcett, and he is still in the midst of a clever mining expert.

Warren went across to Tiburon in October, and not a trace has since been seen of him, nor is it likely that his fate will ever be known.

It is not alone of the dangers that were before him. In spite of offers of help by natives to guide him and to accompany him, so he crossed Hell's Gate without a guide, all of whom who have preceded him.

Tiburon is no touch island in savage Melanesia. It lies in the gulf of California, and while it is within the limits mentioned by only a few miles of salt water.

Yet it remains one of the world's unexplored spots. It is said to be inhabited by a race of Indians who are supposed to be of pure Aztec blood, and the rest of all accounts.

A good old number eighty-one years old, who lives in Ohio, is said to have established a remarkable record of sixty rods in under that she added ripened strawberries to the list. She wanted to know about some all who try to lead her into temptation. She studied into the interior and was never seen again, and the fate of the party was not unraveled by Professor Jeffries in 1904.

Another of the islands that still lie in the world which are mostly Thrown, and that is Juan Fernandez, the Robinson Crusoe island. Mas-a-fuera, which is in the way of sailors, is also a mystery island, and has been for years. Only one is the boundless crop and was visited by Captain Cook in 1774, and the population (estimated) was 2,000. Now it is said to be uninhabited.

The young wife who has just taken up her housekeeping duties would do well to profit by the experience of more than one expedition has been organized to search for traces of Selkirk, the sailor who was the original of Defoe's famous story, who died accidentally in serpents through the bushes and grass, and not every one of the explorers, and their minds affected by the monotony of dark temples in the control mountains of the island, have returned to tell of the impregnable as Tiburon and Masgets. Not for different reasons, however, are

Trinadn, a lonely spot of land thirty miles in circumference, in the Pacific surrounded by a terrible rampart of coral, which rises from the deep sea. Only on one bay side of the island the are the Penn Wells of the Pacific. The surf, which always breaks on the rocky face of the island, makes landing practically impossible.

Yet it was here that in 1761 a French explorer found Inhabitants and 110 vessels out of over 300 aboard got safely to land. The descendants of these women, were recovered in the year 1776, setting up some amazing stories of the wonderful country from a voyage of seven months, with no food but shellfish and no drink but rain water caught in the rocks.

In the year 1907 that famous navigator, Henry Hudson, discovered the island of a rock island 300 miles east of Trinidad, which he named after his ship. That island was never seen again by white men, and it is said to be the Englishmen, among whom was Lord Dunraven, who have tried to find it.

Then it vanished for another fifty years, when in the year of 1811, by the Australia aboard the vessel the River Clyde.

No one has ever set foot on Juan Fernandez, but it is said that it is in no regular would attempt, approach it. If the vessels are not driven by the gale on the surface of the island could from the deck of a passing ship. Even the natives of the island are afraid to approach it.

Another island that is the mystery is Easter island, where not so long ago an explorer met his fate. His name was Palmer, and he is said to have been a clever mining expert.

Warren went across to Tiburon in October, and not a trace has since been seen of him, nor is it likely that his fate will ever be known.

LAST OLD-TIME TEAMSTER DIES

Man who Used to Haul Flour from this Vicinity to Baltimore, Bringing back Merchandise, Dies at his Mont Alto Home.

Samuel Heefner, aged 87 years, of Mont Alto, the last of the old teamsters in this vicinity who, more than sixty years ago, hauled the produce of the Cumberland Valley to Baltimore and returned with merchandise for the country merchants, died Thursday.

Six horses usually were used to get over the mountains, when two of them were sent to the home and the wagon team proceeded on its way with four horses. From the top of the mountain a change was made up the procession. They had never stopping until Hanover was reached, when the teams were put up and fed for the night, and the teamsters would get their supper, after which they would seat themselves in the barroom and spend the time to close up for the night when they would depart for their homes (which they took along with them) on the latterom floor and would sleep until the following morning, after obtaining their breakfast, they would hitch up their teams and resume their journey.

When the city was reached the wagons were unloaded and again refreshed with merchandise. In some instances the teamsters, after they were driven to make up the load. The wagons were loaded in such a way as to place a certain amount of money in a conspicuous place, which was to be the teamster who in turn would hand it to the merchant visited, who would then count the money handed to pay his bill and then hand the remainder back to the teamster, who would then repeated at each place until his load was disposed of, if any money was left, this was taken back home.

Mr. Heefner, on one occasion, was given $12000 to take to the city, for which he did to the satisfaction of the one who gave it to him.

The funeral was held this afternoon at two o'clock at Mont Alto.

SURPRISED PASTOR

New Pastor Called upon by Members and Friends of Congregation.

The members and friends of the Methodist Church attended a surprise last Wednesday evening at their new pastor, Rev. R. Skyles Uyt-ter. About eight o'clock people began gathering at the parsonages and kept coming in large numbers until about a quarter of the house was occupied. A very delightful evening of music and social conversation was enjoyed by all.

Big League Stories

By CHARLES E VAN LOAN

II.—SWEENEY TO SAN-GUINETTI TO SCHULTZ

From "The Ten Thousand Dollar Arm and Other Tales of the Big Leagues" (1913, by Small, Maynard & Company)

Sweeney to Sanguinetti to Schultz. That is the way it sounded when a string of the gamest men who ever wore baseball clothes, of course, it was "Sanguinetti to Sweeney to Schultz," which is more matter of inconsequential detail. Regarding whose wife side of the ball the ball was hit. If anything of a baseball fiend he was not. From the time he landed it was a certainty that it would be started by Pat Sullivan, pushed along by the Italian and pulled by the Celtic. As for the third baseman, he was only a married man who had a couple of children and a touch of rheumatism in his right knee. He had the harness and was the team that the debutantes left. It was not his fault; he simply could not help it.

Sweeney used to say that Shortie Schultz was the greatest baseball prevention from the women who wish to marry him. The gentleman was rather attentively wedded to Grace Sweeney, Sanguinetti's sweetheart, were inclosures and based on the fact that this same grace was Sweeney's joke. The rest truth of the matter was that Sanguinetti may take the silliest and never was known to have a thought in his head.

It happened in St. Louis, where the Sweeney-Sanguinetti-Schultz trio of the season once said pat battles of the ball field, and Sanguinetti, according to some other pastime, non-New York baseball writers, was the poorest player of his entire team. Sweeney was the best player of the team, by all odds.

Now during Sweeney's first year in the all the ball players vanished into a room and emerged in baseball clothes. Sanguinetti was the last to appear. He was dressed in a loud suit and he was the last to appear. He was dressed in a loud suit and he was the last to appear. He was dressed in a loud suit and he

HUERTA AGREES TO SALUTE FLAG

Action Followed Session of Mexican Senate.

U. S. WILL RETURN IT

As Battleships Speed South Huerta Announces He Will Atone For Offense Against Dignity of the United States.

Washington, April 17. — Provisional President Huerta of Mexico has promised to salute the American flag in apology for the arrest of American Bluejackets at Tampico.

The only condition attached is that the American ships fire a salute in acknowledgment.

President Wilson said this was according to all precedents and that this would be done, when Huerta added. He said his actions from Mexico were "very encouraging."

Huerta's promise was made to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires in Mexico City.

Later Secretary of State Bryan sent a message to Mr. O'Shaughnessy. He would not reveal its contents, but it is understood it was an acceptance of Huerta's offer to fire a salute, to be returned by the United States.

Unless Huerta is playing a trick or changes his mind, which is regarded as extremely unlikely, the crisis promises to end within the next twenty-four hours. It will end a situation that has brought the United States nearer to war than anything since the war with Spain, which began on April 21, 1898.

Confidently it was stated that if the salute is fired some of the warships now assembled at Mexican waters will be turned back. Until the crisis is settled patrol duty of the ships in the Atlantic fleet will be stopped. Neither will the operations to send more of the Pacific fleet be halted.

Huerta's attitude of attitude from defiance to compliance with the American demand came as a result of an all-day executive session of the Mexican Senate. They finally outlined the situation and put the decision squarely up to his congressional advisers. It was announced from the White House after a conference with Secretary Bryan and Senator Stilwell, head of the foreign relations committee, with the president.

It also developed that European powers urged Huerta to accede to the demand for full reparation for the repeating insults to the United States.

It was authoritatively stated that the only point remaining to be determined was the manner of guns to be fired in the salute and that this would be speedily agreed upon. At the state, war and navy departments officials considered the crisis as passed.

With regard to the United States returning a salute in acknowledgment, officials pointed out that on occasions when the American navy had saluted the flag of other nations, as a result of difficulties at sea, a salute in response had been fired.

The only question involved in Huerta's condition was whether a salute of everyone would constitute recognition of the government, but it was pointed out that the Washington government, can there recognition a question of be sent in each case and would not so regard an acknowledgment of Huerta's salute.

Diplomatic representatives in Mexico City, under orders from their home offices, continue to exert a behind-pressure Huerta to yield, and Mexicans in the United States also are using their that to speculate would be the best way for Huerta to act.

TREE SURGERY IN GETTYSBURG

Foreman of Tree Surgeons who have been Treating Local Trees Writes Interesting Article for the News. Care Should be Taken.

H. C. Jones, of the Davey Tree Expert Company, of Kent, Ohio, who has been in charge of the work of saving many fine shade trees in Gettysburg, has prepared the following on "Tree Surgery" for The News.

It was not designed by the all wise Creator that animals, plants or any living creature should drag through life in a half-dead condition.

Perfect happiness comes from obedience to supreme law, resulting in what we call health, which is the normal condition of bodies existing in harmony with the Divine Will. The infant who inherits a sound constitution and never violates the laws of his being, enjoys as a reward the state of perfect health. There is not a mental malady or bodily deformity in existence but has back of it an efficient cause.

In the physical universe; in the physical, mental, moral and spiritual train-up of man; in the lower animals and in the vegetable kingdom the laws of God are one and so much can understand a tree, shrub or plant until he not only says but realizes that when speaking of or contemplating a tree that tree is a living creature.

The moment you say life, what do you imply? All the laws that go to make that life healthy or unhealthy, do you not? The average person has no clearer conception of the Law of Life in a tree than he has of how he can moon perform its circuit. In one case he says, the tree is alive; in the other, the moon is held by the law of gravitation. That seems to be the end of his explanation and the extent of his knowledge. Take three apples for instance, one of them is perfect. Why? It's from a healthy tree. Fortunately our good common sense tells us this is what we can expect. The other two are discarded. Why? Because you cannot get sound fruit from a diseased tree.

Consider the marvelous cell system in the structure of the trunk, branches, and twigs. Nothing could be more educational than to get on your back eye and see how beautifully this system is built. The upward flow of sap is not under the bark, where you find such a copious supply of a liquid something that you call sap; for this sap is not sap, but cambium, as the scientists call it; it is the sap that has been worked over, as to speak, in the leaf; it might be called tree blood; it answers as blood in the animal body, and it returns under the bark, between that and last year's new wood, laid down by another new layer. Now, bear in mind, via; in the upward flow it is inside, within the cells of the wood.

Now, take a hideously wounded tree, and there are millions of them. Cambium sap has started from the roots and then has to pass through this unsightening virus, can you reasonably expect that when it comes to the footstep, (the last) that pure blood can be manufactured from impure material?

You had probably not thought of this; but is it not self-evident that perfectly pure, sound, wholesome fruit cannot be manufactured from polluted material?

The lesson is, if you desire pure, sound, wholesome fruit, don't subject your trees to all kinds of fungous and scrofulous diseases. The sap that gets into the land is changed and passes on, but all that sap goes into the fruit and is pure or impure, remains there.

The inflicting of a wound on a tree is neither destructive nor injurious to any great extent if the structure is understood and the wound properly cared for; but the ignorance of tree life, on the part of the so-called tree man, has resulted in shortening the existence of orchards and shade trees at least four-fifths of their natural lives, and disfiguring them to such an extent that it would be advantageous to pull out nine-tenths of the old trees and replace with young and healthy ones.

The farmer, and the ignorant city or town tree man, cuts off a limb and leaving a stub. You soon see death set in, and the bark has begun to peel off.

In a few years the stub rots out, leaving a hole, and in a case where the cut was made properly, but the wound was not dressed, decay soon set in and the rot worked down.

Examine a leaf. How many will assert its beauty, saying nothing of its utility? Did you ever stop to think that all the countless millions of tons of timber ever grown were made in a leaf? Yes, every twig, lateral and main branch, trunk, root and all were made in the leaf. Now what does it mean when you cut off a live branch? You have destroyed both respiration and circulation.

No ... does not form the beautiful ... giving tops of shade trees ... to ... to ... to furnish "beef ... money for a lot of tree food". This is a characteristic statement of Mr. John Davey, "Father of Tree Surgery".

He believes in the treatment of diseased trees only by competent men who understand a thorough knowledge of their work.

TOWN BOYS ON WAY TO MEXICO

Gettysburg Boys on Warships which will Operate in Southern Waters in Case of War with Mexico. County Boys too.

Should war be declared between the United States and Mexico Gettysburg would have a large boy at the front to fight for their country, a number of young men from this town and from the county being in the service of Uncle Sam's navy which is now nosing in its powerful warships to guard the nation's honor.

Winfield Scott Gilbert, a son of Mrs. Nellie Dubin, of Baltimore street, is a blacksmith on board the "Wyoming", originally the flagship of Admiral Badger who now heads the Atlantic fleet which has been ordered to Mexico, received by his mother tells of preparations for sailing for the southern waters.

Harry Ellroy Litzinger, formerly of Gettysburg, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Linn who moved from Gettysburg to Idaho, several years ago, is on the "Kansas". He, too, has written to his friends here and said in a letter recently of this week that all was activity on board the big man-of-war in preparation for any impending difficulty that might arise.

Robert Witherow, son of Mrs. K. E. Witherow, who resides on Carlisle street, has been in the navy since 1917, since his boat, the United States Schoolship "Annie Ortendyke" joined them early in the winter. The boat is due to remain there until the early summer whether or not there are any hostilities. While not prepared to state in any definite way that the ship on which the Gettysburg boy is stationed will see all activities that may take place.

Edgar Sandoe, a son of Henry Sandoe, of Biglerville, is in Texas with the United States troops. He has been in the service for some time and in case of war with Mexico he expected to see some of the first to see actual fighting.

William Sheaffer, a son of George Sheaffer, of Littlestown, has been stationed with the marines at the Philadelphia Navy Yard since the Pacific Coast. No word has yet been received as to when whether or not he has been sent with the warships of the Pacific Squadron ordered to the west coast of Mexico. It is believed that they will take more than the regular crew of men on board as is included.

Raymond E. Cooker, son of D. H. Cooker, of near Round Top, has been a member of the band on the "Ohio," which was expected to leave on that ship and his relatives here believe that he has gone with the fleet to Mexico. He visited Gettysburg within the past month and left for Chicago where he joined lines during his stay here.

S. Edward Brumbaugh, a graduate of Gettysburg College in the class of 1917, has for several months been stationed at Vera Cruz. He is a lieutenant in the marines and has been present during some of the incidents which have led up to the present strained relations with the unhappy country to the South.

In almost every branch of the service Gettysburg and the county have one or more boys ready to take part in the fighting should occasion arise, and their friends are watching with the keenest interest developments in the Mexican situation.

The majority of the local boys are in infantry companies at Philadelphia and other barracks ready to be sent to the South should occasion demand.

IMPROVEMENT

Ice and Storage Company Make Decided Change at their Property.

A marked improvement has been made by the Consumers' Ice and Storage Company at their property on Washington street which they recently purchased from George Shankle, Sr. The fences have been removed and a fine driveway has been built to the plant. A concrete walk is being constructed around the front of the house and the railroad, a lawn with tarvees and shrubbery will be well taken care of. The approach to the plant will be most attractive and add much to the appearance of things in that part of town.

The boat is due to remain there until the early summer whether or not there are any hostilities. MADE PLANS FOR ANNUAL ASSEMBLY

Officers of Lutheran Summer Assembly Met here on Monday and Formulated Plans for this year's Meeting. Innovations Announced.

Plans for this year's Lutheran Summer Assembly were laid at a meeting of the officers of the organization on Monday. The dates for the assembly were fixed for July 30 to August 6, and application will be made for the use of the buildings at Camp Colt, the Pennsylvania Chautauqua.

It is planned to have this year's gathering partake much more of a social character than those of other years. There will be special entertainment for the wives of the clergymen attending the assembly and for all other women who care to take part in the meetings. All will be courtesy, it is expected, in the main buildings at the Seminary, while the refectory will be placed in front.

In former years the assembly has been held during the week of the Chautauqua but it was found unsatisfactory, as the features of Chautauqua were more distracting and conflicted with the more serious work of the assembly, in addition to taking up many of the periods. This year, accordingly, the assembly will be held when ministers will be an entirely separate affair.

The meetings will be devoted to a Bible study hour, lecture period and conference hour. The lecturers will be Sallie Pretzman, of Baltimore, who has been here before, who will conduct periods of special missionary work for women and there will also be special study periods for children, as well as the men. The afternoons, however, will be devoted largely to outdoor sports.

In the evenings there will be lectures, some of which will be illustrated.

The persons to have charge of the various conferences in the mornings and to deliver the lectures herein, have been selected, but not all have accepted the invitation as yet they say, the program will not be given out for publication.

Those present at Monday's meeting for the planning of this year's assembly were the Rev. Dr. Luther B. Wolf, president, Philadelphia; president; Dr. W. A. Granville and Rev. D. J. Wagner, Gettysburg, vice presidents; Rev. George D. Gilbert, Newville, secretary; Rev. J. H. Meyer, Jersey City, treasurer.

FOUND JEWELRY IN HOTEL RUINS

Persons Search Ruins in Blue Mountain House and Find Various Articles, Evidently the Contents of a Trunk. Many Mountain Visitors.

Some of the visitors to Pen Mar, Sunday, went to the site of the Blue Mountain House, destroyed by fire August 5, last, and searched among the ruins there for relics. Several men found pieces of jewelry.

Among those searching was Harry Swaney, who up a silver locket and chain. On one side of the locket is engraved the letters "G. L. L", and on the other side "1915". A photograph inside had been removed from the locket.

About the same place were found two gold bracelets. One was a band bracelet, engraved; it had been burned in the heat. The other was a small round bracelet. Trunk hinges and a lock, nearby, lead to the conclusion that the jewelry was in a trunk.

Reports from the mountain sentinel of Adams County report numerous visits during the past week of young people who were in search for arrowheads. The pretty flowers are said to be in addition to the principal cities, all ports at which White might try to escape. Consulates were notified to be on the look-out for him. Places at which he might cross the border into Mexico were also on the list of the U. S. secret service men.

The search was sent communications to the consulate ordinary citizens there will receive the same treatment as those of the great developments of the world's greatest century, especially at distances of three inches and less. The result is becoming an economic necessity because of the great congestion on the railroads and the restrictions placed upon the shipping of material. SHE SAVED HIM

By MAY C. ETHERIDGE

"John, I've something to say to you. You're a good fellow, and I love you fondly. I have some stock in the Hope Mining company that is valuable and other securities. They're all in his own name. There is also a will in the box leaving all I possess to you."

"Why, Mr. Hunter," said John Morgan, surprised, "what is the world put me into your hands? I've been working for you only six months, and you never saw me before I came to you and asked you for employment in the store. Besides, you are a healthy, young man. Better to live thirty or forty years yonder."

"I'll tell you, John. You've told me about time wife of yours in the east and that little kid you set so much store by. Something tells me that I've not long to live. If I were to die to-morrow there wouldn't be a person in the world to claim what I left. If I will it to you you can bring your family here and go into business with me later. I might as well make some one happy before I die," he added, with a sigh.

He took John to his bedroom over the store, pulled up a plank in the floor, just in the bed and pried the plank. Then the two went down ladder and removed from a hole in the right side a heavy wrote his will at the foot and told her of the bequest to the young man and his family.

It was about three months after this that John went east to see his family and the rush, made up a deposit of the stock that was under the plank and sent for the bank at the county seat. Then he returned to the store and, without a moment's delay, made several deposits to his own credit. Then he sold his cow and chickens, and, with the money he had made by the story about having left him a fortune, purchased a small fortune which he had accumulated in the two months he remained in the store. He closed out his business and, without saying a word to any one, took his family and left, and, though the officers against him was merely circumstantial, he considered it necessary that he was unstrained to be hanged.

Then he purchased a farm near a county seat, where John, by perseverance, and efforts, soon built up a wealth. The jeweler noticed on the locket the letters "G. L. L." and the woman if these were her initials. She answered that they were and looked frightened. This evidently the property of the owner, and he kept the woman perplexed till he could be sure of her. Then he informed her that the initials were those of John Hollister, whose estate he had had so great a commission in the care of. The woman was placed in the custody of local officers.

Word was received on April 8 that White had sold the car in Philadelphia the previous Friday for $900 and Mrs. Hollister was released from jail. She secured the machine and brought it home. It had been of considerable use and showed indications of having been driven over rough roads and mountains. A notable feature of the return trip home was that Mr. Keasar passed numerous automobiles in which he saw a description of the car had been given. Several times the machine was searched, and yet not one of them made any effort to stop it.

When Mr. Keasar recovered the car it was stated that White would be under arrest in a few days but the prisoner made by Philadelphia officers on the automobiles. Since then numerous rumors have been afloat concerning White's whereabouts but all lack confirmation and the first definite news of the young Englishman came in a telegram to Chief of Police Thomas which told of his capture.

The message stated that White would be the luxury of $25 worth of tools from Mr. Keasar which he is alleged to have stolen while in the employ of the latter. It is not known whether he will be tried on the charge of stealing the automobile or not.

WHITE IS CAUGHT IN WESTERN CITY

Bob White Arrested in Chicago on Information Given Detectives of that City by Local Officers. Chief Emmons Gets Notification.

Bob White is in the toils. A telegram from Chief of Detectives Ralph, of Chicago, to Chief of Police Emmons, of Gettysburg, received Tuesday morning, announced the arrest in the Windy City of the smooth young Englishman who left this town in the beginning to come back to Gettysburg without accompanying papers. One of the letters of which I was Tuesday morning for Chicago to bring back their prey.

The arrest comes as the direct result of the vigorous efforts put forth by local officers to apprehend White. Every city and town of any consequence was apprised of his disappearance and the fact that he was wanted here, together with the reward offered for his capture. The first set of notices mentioned the reward as $50 and the second list as $200. The only notice that Chicago was the first so that officers there will receive the latter reward for the arrest.

In addition to the principal cities, all ports at which White might try to escape were notified to be on the look-out for him. Places at which he might cross the border into Mexico were also on the list of the U. S. secret service men.

$18,000,000 BUILDS $50,000,000 ROADS.

Savings Effected Through Cash Purchases and County Aid.

California's state highway commission has completed a $50,000,000 system with the building of $18,000,000 worth of roads, Charles D. Blaney, a member of the commission, said.

This has been accomplished for the state through the saving of 20 per cent for materials, it is explained, and by the purchase of 40 cents in cash for every dollar in bonds. The saving in materials alone amounted to $3,118 to $1,560 is barred as against from $3,100 to $2,400.

In this way, Blaney goes on to explain, lower bids are invited from contractors, for they do not have to tie up from $2,000 to $3,000 in each of the six to ten jobs for that amount.

The saving in time is the estimated saving through this method.

Another item of saving is estimated in having towns and cities contribute one-half or more of the cost of highways and by getting counties to give the rights of way and build their portion.

A saving has been accomplished by inducing the railroads to haul the materials and unwrapping at a reduced rate. Bids have been sold to more than one hundred. Blaney says, because they realize that good roads mean increased passenger and freight revenue for them.

The 1,500 miles of trunk highway of the system will be finished by 1919, and constructed with a concrete base, with a bituminous wearing surface.

The cost will be about $600 a mile. The 1,500 miles of trunk line will be constructed of local materials or size of the state, Blaney says. The 1,500 miles of trunk line will be constructed of local materials or size of the state, Blaney says. HEAVY TASK FOR POST OFFICE MEN

Gettysburg Post Office Force Finds itself Suddenly Confronted with Heavy Task which will Require Six Weeks to Complete.

Gettysburg's post office force Men, morning were the busiest bunch of workmen to be found in the town, while the employes of banks and other places in the county were up against the same proposition which confronted them at the post office. Persons waiting for their mail at boxes and delivered windows were restless over the delay in distribution, and these resenting mail by carrier had to wait a short an hour past the scheduled time for their arrival.

An order received from Washington prescribes an immense amount of extra work at every office in order to get important statistics and details regarding the parcel post service. To handle properly this extra work at the Gettysburg office would require the services of at least two extra clerks. So busy was the regular force this morning that it was impossible to attend to calls at the many windows and delay was reported on all sides.

Every parcel which enters the Gettysburg office must be examined to learn from what office it was sent and what postage it contained. A memorandum must be made of this and will be the destination of every outgoing parcel and the postage it bears. All this information must be kept for government material. In fact, no other method is left open to the people.—Reed—Leslie's Weekly.

TOOK EXAMINATION

Candidates for County Post Offices Meet Mental Tests.

An examination was held in Gettysburg Saturday for postmasters in the county at the Fourth Class offices.

The examination was conducted by the department, which has ruled that postmasters receiving less than $1,240 a year must be in charge of men who have passed civil service examinations.

Examination was held here for all such offices in Adams County except Littlestown, Gettysburg and Hanover, town, which were held at Hanover, by examiners sent here for the purpose. The examinations with the exception of Littlestown, were held at Biglerville, Springs. There were twenty entrants, three of whom were women.

TWO HAVE ARMS BROKEN

Miss Lizzie Mertz and Herbert Zeigler Receive Painful Injuries.

Miss Lizzie Mertz, of Chambersburg street, suffered a severe, painful accident Sunday evening when she slipped on the pavement in front of the corner of Franklin and West Middle streets. Her right arm was broken a few inches above the wrist joint.

Rebecca, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ziegler, of Chambersburg street, met with an accident Sunday afternoon when she fell and her grandfather, William T. Ziegler on Springs avenue. The little girl was taken to the home of her grandfather where Dr. Hamme reduced the fracture and dressed the injury.

Lightning Conductors—Mother nature does not intend that lightning shall be conducted to be robbed by this method of the lives of the state. Added to this will be something the $18,000,000 which will be raised by the counties, all of which will be for good roads.

Eighty-two counties have joined the state highway department for a total of more than 1,000 improved highways. Sixty-one counties have voted for all they can get under the bond issue and Commissioner Blaney says that the department will be kept busy for some time to come.

HOW TO BUILD GOOD ROADS.

There is only one right solution of the road problem, and that is the construction of permanent roads. Every road built wholly or in part with funds received by the state or federal government should have a length of life equal to the life of the bonds issued to raise the money to pay for them. The foundation, bridges, culverts and retaining walls at least should have such durability. Otherwise future generations will find themselves doubly burdened in the matter of these old roads and at the same time raising money for the building of the roads.

The use of tractors or car for timber in place of water is to lessen the life of the modern road and slays the dust nuisance. Dust settles and settles over the delay in distribution, and these resenting mail by carrier had to wait a short an hour past the scheduled time for their arrival.

An order received from Washington prescribes an immense amount of extra work at every office in order to get important statistics and details regarding the parcel post service. To handle properly this extra work at the Gettysburg office would require the services of at least two extra clerks. So busy was the regular force this morning that it was impossible to attend to calls at the many windows and delay was reported on all sides.

Every parcel which enters the Gettysburg office must be examined to learn from what office it was sent and what postage it contained. A memorandum must be made of this and will be made of the cost of delivering each package, a separate record will require careful estimate and the taking into account of much other data.

A memorandum must be made for each of the six weeks during the time which the record is kept, while the extra work is at its height just now, because it has not been thoroughly systematized, delay may be expected during the entire period in the handling of mail.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS

Lively Chase on Chambersburg Street in which Three Take Part.

As the horse gathered speed he was spurred on by the spurs which kept striking him in the sides and only the fact that the young lady is an expert horsewoman saved her from being thrown. John Slaybaugh and Walter Fuhrmen, who were riding with Miss Shultz, assisted in pursuit and a pretty race resulted, the Slaybaugh family catching the horse on Springs avenue, after it had passed Stratton Hall. The race was watched by a large crowd.

The following ordinance was passed which, it is believed, will do away with the objections of former years. Chief of Police Hannon was appointed to perform the duties of market master until a regular market master is elected.

The ordinance passed Tuesday evening provides that all goods must be removed from the market at the time as they are purchased and imposes a fine of $10 for violations. The ordinance is so worded that either trucker or buyer may be arrested for violation of the law. Another provision of the ordinance is the change in time, placing the market opening at 4 a. m. and its closing time as 9:30 a. m.

The question was also fixed at four o'clock, not with the idea that the market would actually open at that time, but to prevent the possibility of any trucker coming in could start to sell as soon as he got here and there would not be the confusion of all starting to sell at once and forestalling buyers crowding about the various wagons.

Engaging goods beforehand is forbidden in an ordinance passed last year, which will now be enforced and the present ordinances now forbid anything at all going on the market which is not actually for sale.

The measures passed by a unanimous vote of all the members present day night though Mr. Trostle said he was opposed to the four o'clock opening hour and voted for it only because he wanted to see the market retained.

A recently passed ordinance that all packages must be labled to show exactly the number and weight so that beans, peas, small fruits and other things contained in the packages will have to be marked "one quart", "one pint" or whatever it may be.

For the present the market master applications were received from C. O. Myers and Clyde Bair. Mr. Myers is the Baughman presented the name of Jacob Benner, Jr., for the position but believed the selection of a man for the position should be a matter for more deliberate consideration and suggested that Mr. Emmons perform the duties until a permanent market master is appointed was carried, Messrs. Stock, Baughman and Bushman voting against the motion. Mr. Emmons is to receive $10 a month additional salary for the work.

The advertising committee was instructed to have the usual amount of the market ordinances printed for distribution to truckers and citizens.

Two Brigades Sent to Vera Cruz.

FUNSTON IN COMMAND

THE BORDER IS THREATENED

Actions of Federals and Rebels: Causes Drastic Order

Washington, April 14. — The first movement of United States troops into Mexico started early today when the Fifth Garrison ordered a brigade of infantry and some artillery stationed at Texas City, Tex., to proceed at once for Galveston and thence to Vera Cruz.

Brigadier General Frederick Funston has been assigned to command the troops were ordered to the seat of war and the entire Fifth division will strengthen the naval forces.

The orders caused a flurry of preparation, but little remains to be done except to ap ortion the ships to the ships cruisers, as the brigade has been ready for days. Ships that have been undertaken on boons provisions for two months.

Transporting forces reported as still latest the two bridges to be landed in the harbor of Vera Cruz is ten miles and one eighteen miles from Vera Cruz, where it is also reported that these bridges must be destroyed before the troops can land. Other operations, because they could be quickly made.

Dispatches from press sources say that Vera Cruz is defended by Captain William R. Rush, of the battleship Florida, with a force of 1,000 marines, forces, declare themselves well satisfied with the straw required. Provisions have been occupied by the United States.

Lieutenant Commander Alles Rodman, an aviation officer of the navy, is also at this part of the city along the piers of the Mexican Railway and the United States navy, is in command. Both of these officers are well known in Washington.

The western part of the city, the part nearest the railroad, is occupied by the Americans.

Reinforcements are held responsible for the restoration of normal conditions in the Mexican capital.

The work of sanitation and policing of the city will be undertaken at once.

The city was not badly damaged by the fire which destroyed the custom house. The fire was thrown indiscriminately. Broken doors and windows and the prevent an outbreak of disease.

The navy department announced that the total killed in the occupation of Vera Cruz by the American forces was nine, and the number wounded.

Those killed in Wednesday's fighting were: Rufus Perry, private, U. S. M. C.; Dr. Dunlap Hollis Maupin; Seaman; W. I. Watson, ordinary seaman; Charles Miller, ordinary seaman; O. A. Smith, ordinary seaman.

California Militia Sent to the Border.

San Francisco, April 14. Governor Hiram W. Johnson today issued orders to companies from San Diego to the Mexican border. Those ordered included squads from San Diego and border towns. Governor Johnson said that Governor Venustiano Carranza, chief of the Constitutionalists in Mexico, had promised protection to all Americans in Mexico. Those who are not willing to accept his promise of protection will be given transportation to the United States.

Carranza Wants U. S. to Evacuate

Says Seizure of Vera Cruz Is Violation of Sovereignty.

El Paso, Tex., April 14.—Demanding that the United States immediately withdraw its forces from Mexican territory on the ground that the seizure of Vera Cruz was an act of war against the entire Mexican nation, and declaring that the United States army is that a refusal to do this will be considered by Mexico as a declaration of war, Carranza, "first chief" of the Constitutionalists, today issued a statement at Chihuahua on President Wilson.

As an unofficial representative, General Carranza suggests that, after the withdrawal of the United States occupies the Constitutionalists and Federals unite in a campaign against the cabinet officials, resulting in a conference between the presidents of the two countries.

If this is done, General Carranza makes it clear, full reparation in the form of an apology to the American people will be made.

General Carranza's message came in reply to Secretary of State Bryan's note which did not reach the first chief.

There is no mistaking the import of General Carranza's message. It is the voice of a man who has been accustomed to command and his commands are not acceded to. He declares that he will push bonds with General Huerta or any Federal officer, but his demands are clear.

SEIZE REBEL MUNITIONS

ODD FELLOWS' MINSTREL SHOW

Songs and Jokes Follow Each Other in Rapid Succession with plenty of Local Color Thrown in. Affair a Big Success in Every Way.

With brand new jokes, an abundance of good singing, attractive stage effects and original vaudeville, Gettysburg's Odd Fellow Minstrels held the boards at Waltee's Theatre Friday night to a house that filled every seat and would have packed all the standing room, had standing been allowed.

The fun was kept at a fast pace from the time the curtain rose on a well arranged stage to the final drop on a pretty roof garden scene. From the orchestra pit Joseph H. Hendrix directed the show and to him the success of the musical numbers must be given the credit. Jack Bell, manager, Louise, was a pleasant feature of the performance while the newly organized Odd Fellows' orchestra, James McDonnell leader, was on hand and acquitted itself with praise.

The entire circle, with the exception of C. K. Gilbert, interlocutor, were in black face and the curtain rose to a medley of popular airs, sung with a vim that would have done credit to any traveling troupe that ever visited the town. Brady, Wilson and Preston Z. Tate held up the ends in fine fashion for some minutes and when Charles E. Little and Charles B. Tate meandered in from the wings, with their arrival the merriment increased, local hits were served rapidly, town interests and citizens suffered jokes while full reference to the "recent unpleasantness" was not lost. Where one was always to get a full from the audience.

Some undiscovered talent was revealed in the various songs. Charley Tate proved himself to be a vocalist of power and, between singing, manipulating the tambourine, and participating in the jokes, was about the busiest man on the stage. Charley Little showed unusual ease in the audience by his professional minstrel style and entered so thoroughly into the spirit of the affair that it seemed doubtful if the time should ever come when he would again be the serious-faced painter at the High School building. Allie Plank put in much life into "The Queen of Charcoal Alley" that he and the chorus got the best encore of the night of the evening. The other songs were by vocalists of recognized ability. W. Ernest Ziegler, Ray E. Zinn, G. Edgar Miller and J. Clifford Wierman while Mr. Hutchinson, a Mr. Gold and Mr. Long several times and was heartily received.

The degree team of Gettys Lodge, with their usual accuracy executed the drill of the Rouan grands and as the start for the vaudeville portion of the program Charles Tate and Charley Little gave Irish and negro character sketches and Mr. Bream did a little clog.

As a sketch, "The Scooter Club of Blackville" delighted the house, Brady Sefton's antics being the most conspicuous part in the proceeding while Duffy Wormsan established himself as a close second. George Washington Bullion, of Smart Set fame, who appeared here several years ago. A real live fire right on the stage with the Blackville Fire Department responding "with its usual promptness", concluded the sketch amid the cheers of the spectators who watched with amazement the appearance of the latest improved fire fighting apparatus—not pulled by hand.

Allen Plank, in and out of an automobile built of bananas, crackers, and other doubtful means of locomotion, scored in his Get Out and Get Under stunt with Louise Hendrix singing, and then followed the finale—a pretty roof garden scene, reminding one of the palmy days of the Jay Wellington hour kiosks. This was more good singing and the final drop of the curtain came on a brilliant audience with a good and generous show.

About $100 was cleared.

URGE ROAD WORK NEAR GETTYSBURG

Shortage of Funds for State Road Work Hampers Operations here. Public Ledger Sees Good Move in Emmitsburg Road Plan.

The necessity of repairing and rebuilding the main roads entering Gettysburg is coming to be more apparent every year, yet there seems to be little hope of any extensive steps being taken here this summer, lack of funds is given as the reason for the State's failure to go ahead here. Representatives of the Highway Department were in Gettysburg but week and all they could promise was the possible expenditure of $100 to place the York Pike between Gettysburg and New Oxford in temporary repair where it is now in bad condition. In discussing road conditions the Philadelphia "Public Ledger" says:

CONVICTS ON THEIR HONOR

They Do Excellent Work In Road Building

EXPERIMENTS SUCCESSFUL

The National Committee on Prison Labor Receives Reports From Various States Indicating That the Honor System Produces Good Results.

The practice of putting convicts on their honor, especially prisoners who are at work constructing or repairing highways, has been started in several states and is meeting with success, according to reports received by the National committee on prison labor. North Dakota, Oregon, New Jersey, Michigan, Ohio and Colorado are among the states where the honor system has been developed to its highest degree. Under the laws of North Dakota the board of control may employ convicts on the public highways, their expenses to be paid by the respective counties in which they work. The law stipulates that the prisoners perform their duties under the supervision of skilled laborers, who act as guards, but, so far as possible, the law de-

Under short time convict worked upon solid state roads shall receive a wage of $1.50 per day, and for each day over thirty days that he shall faithfully and efficiently perform work on said state roads, and in case of convicts who have been sentenced for life there shall be given them as in the judgment of the board of control may be just, but they convict fails to do faithful work he shall forfeit all or as many of the days' wages as the board of control by a majority of all members thereof shall determine.

Of 275 convicts who were worked under the honor system in Ohio only seventeen less than 1 per cent—attempted to escape, according to the report of Warden Coffin, superintendent of the Ohio state penitentiary. While there were three employed there were no escapes from the honor system, the prisoners being given the run of the prison farm. Warden Coffin says that they convict fails to do faithful work he shall forfeit all or as many of the days' wages as the board of control by a majority of all members thereof shall determine.

Warden Wilson Thomas, reporting favorably with Warden Coffin, adds:

Also in Michigan, where all persons convicted of misdemeanors or engaging are sentenced to work on the roads instead of to the jail, the number of prisoners has been found successful. In a letter to the committee Hon. W. H. Bryant, good roads commissioner of Wayne county, Michigan, says of convicts at work on the highways tends to elimination of the saloon.
